Harrington to Reorganize Federal Theatre Project

Administrator Also Plans to Change Methods in Which WPA Affairs Are Managed
Praises Integrity

Chief Says Investigation Shows WPA Integrity Is Very High

Washington, June 13 (AP)—Col. F. C. Harrington, works progress administrator, told a House appropriations committee today he proposed to make administrative changes in WPA, including reorganization of the federal theatre project.

The theatre project has been criticized in testimony before the House committee investigating WPA as having been dominated by the Workers Alliance.

Proposing reorganization of that branch with a view to "improved administration and efficiency," Harrington at the same time disputed many charges against WPA as "inaccurate" and "obviously unfair."

Before his appearance, informed legislators said, the new relief bill, scheduled to go before the House tomorrow, contained a broad provision intended to block any efforts by such organizations as the Alliance to control white collar projects.

Praises Integrity

The WPA chief told the committee, which will recommend additional funds to finance relief activities for the year starting July 1, together with possible sweeping changes in its administration, that he thought the WPA investigation had revealed its record as "one of remarkable integrity."

There were reports in informed circles the committee had decided to recommend abolition of Harrington's post as sole administrator of the WPA and substitution of a three-member board.

He did not touch on that phase of the question in his prepared statement, however, but vigorously protested against legislation which would prohibit the WPA from engaging in heavy construction projects, a step the committee was reported ready to recommend.

Asserting that if such a requirement were imposed, the tendency of private sponsors would be to submit separate items of large undertakings as individual projects, Harrington said "the resultant waste and confusion would be enormous."

Committee members remained tight-lipped about the details of their proposed recommendations, but it was learned said authorities, a $50,000,000 slash was contemplated in the $123,000,000 requested by President Roosevelt for the National Youth Administration.

In Behalf of Art

Saying there might be too many Communists on the federal arts projects, although Harrington did not know that to be a fact, Harrington made a plea for their continuance. He said he had intended to make a number of changes in their administration but delayed them to avoid conflicting with the committee's work. He listed the proposed changes as follows:

Move the offices of the directors of all projects to Washington, where they will function under the close supervision of the national office.

Endeavor to secure local sponsorship in as great a degree as possible for these projects.

Reorganize the federal theatre project.

Make certain changes in personnel to the end of securing more effective project operation.

Legislators discussed their proposed new restrictions on what they called outside domination of projects privately, and not in detail.

Prison Strike Ends

Lansing, Kas., June 13 (AP)—The mutiny of 229 convicts in a coal mine at the Kansas State Penitentiary over silk underwear and food ended without violence at 11:10 o'clock this morning. The rebellious prisoners sent up word to Warden M. F. Amrine they would surrender.

Belgians Give Temporary Refuge to Wanderers on German Ship

Brussels, June 13 (AP)—Temporary havens for half the German-Jewish refugees on board the Hamburg-American liner St. Louis were assured today with decision of the Belgian government to permit landing of 250 of them. The Netherlands last night offered temporary refuge to 200 of the 907 who were denied entry into Cuba and Mexico and are now returning eastward across the Atlantic. In both cases the refugees would be permitted to remain pending their permanent admission to other countries.

New York City Looks for Rain

Manhattan Experiences Its Worst Spring Drouth Since 1903; Many Long Island Wells Have Been Pumped Dry by Heavy Irrigation

New York, June 13 (AP)—New York city, experiencing its worst spring drouth since 1903, scanned the skies for signs of rain today, much like any crop-dependant rural community.

In the six weeks since May 1, the metropolitan area has received only .93 of an inch of rain, compared with a normal precipitation of 4.49. The weather bureau predicted possible light showers for the day.

Although city engineers reported there was no immediate danger of water shortage in the city itself, many sections of Long Island, New Jersey and other nearby areas already were feeling effects of the drouth.

Wells in some farming areas have begun to dry up, partly due to heavier irrigation uses as truck farmers and householders sought to save crops, lawns and trees.

Since the weather bureau records were established in 1871, a similar spring drouth has been suffered only once, in 1903, when May rainfall was .33 of an inch.

Howard H. Campbell, Nassau county farm bureau manager, said early potatoes, sweet corn and cabbage on Long Island needed rain badly and that farmers there were "thoroughly alarmed."

Culloton Is Given Post as Assistant In Tax Department

Former City Judge Will Be Associate Attorney in Cigarette Branch of State Bureau

BERNARD A. CULLOTON

Former City Judge Bernard A. Culloton, leader of Ulster county Democrats, today assumed his new duties as associate attorney in the state department of taxation and finance.

Judge Culloton was named to the post on Monday afternoon by Mark Graves, state tax commissioner, and has been assigned as an assistant to Louis H. Fuess, deputy state tax commissioner, in the commodity tax bureau, which will have charge of the administration of the state's two cents per package cigarette tax.

Judge Culloton will continue to serve as chairman of the Democratic county committee, which position he has held for several years, and will continue his law office in the former Kingston Opera House building on Fair street.

Will Travel in State

Judge Culloton has been assigned to the Albany office, but his new duties will carry him to various sections in the state.

Young Democrats Ask New Chairman

Culloton Promotion Gives Rise to Rumors Youth Would Elect Betts

Appointment of Judge Bernard A. Culloton as an associate attorney in the Department of Taxation and Finance with specific duties in connection with the new two cent per package cigarette tax which will go into effect on July first, has already had its effects upon the local Democratic party. Judge Culloton has held the position of chairman of the Ulster County Democratic Committee for four years since the resignation of Justice Harry E. Schirck who was elected to the Supreme Court.

A movement is already under way among the younger Democrats to put forth a campaign for election of a new county chairman, despite the statement that Judge Culloton anticipates holding the county chairmanship.

Today it was being rumored in Democratic circles that at the county convention in August there probably would be a contest for the county leader's post. The name of James A. Betts is being advanced by the younger Demo-

Squalus Divers Use New Type Helmet

Portsmouth, N. H., June 13 (AP)—Aided by a new type recirculating helmet, divers labored to salvage the sunken submarine Squalus and its 26 bodies struggled today to complete the dangerous and difficult task of tunneling beneath the hull.

The re-circulating device, officers explained, permits mixing of a larger amount of helium with the oxygen, enabling divers to remain below for longer periods. Seven dives were made yesterday, all but one with the new helmet.

Lewis Tells Board Congress' Record For Labor Is Zero

Executive Group Hears Report That Lack of Leadership Turns People Into Dangerous Paths

Washington, June 13 (AP)—John L. Lewis told the CIO executive board today that the record of Congress in dealing with the unemployment problem this year is "worse than nothing."

Speaking at a meeting called to plan a new CIO organization campaign, Lewis said:

"In many ways the nation is still in crisis. Economically we now stand little ahead of where we stood four years ago. Politically we have suffered because there has been economic paralysis. When in nations in crisis no leadership appears which can reverse the crisis, the people become disheartened. They turn to the dangerous and irresponsible who, for the sake of power, offer benefits they cannot deliver."

"Today, therefore, a responsibility greater than ever lies upon political and industrial leaders. I do not think the people will much longer have patience with the nostalgia and the reaction of the powers of corporate business."

Timid Solutions Vain

"Nor will they be content with timid solutions offered by government, solutions fearfully withdrawn before they can be really tested. Unless the nation is led unhesitatingly and courageously forward to the solution of its problems, we stand in danger of being engulfed by a wave of despair and black reaction. Fascism is built upon such despair and such reaction."

Lewis declared that "progressive labor is not retreating" and that sometimes political leaders had forgotten the labor movement is "enduring and deep-rooted."

The responsible agencies of Congress, he declared, "have busied themselves, in open cynicism, with tearing the vitals out of the meager provisions already existing to help the unemployed eke out a living."

The CIO president asserted that Congress had done nothing to restore jobs, improve provisions for taking care of the jobless, reserve civil liberties, or provide more rigid enforcement of labor laws.

"This is a record labor must ponder long and carefully," he said.

Attacks AFL, Business

Lewis told the board members he would show them proof that the American Federation of Labor and representatives of big business had "conspired" to destroy the Wagner act. He said he had proof "which no vague and categorical denials can wipe out."

Discussing the organization campaign, Lewis said there still

Finley Pays

Downtown Resident Who Failed to Meet $200 Fine Pays Sum

The criminal calendar for the June trial term of county court may be reached next Monday for disposition, provided the civil case scheduled to go trial Wednesday morning is concluded at that time. On the call of the calendar Monday afternoon several cases were moved for trial by District Attorney Cleon B. Murray and were set down for early disposition. There are 28 criminal cases on the calendar.

Burton Greaux of this city who was arraigned last week under a charge of possession of policy slips on May 6, was fined $100 on his plea of guilty. The fine was paid. In addition Judge Traver imposed a three months jail sentence but execution of that sentence was suspended during good behavior and Greaux was told that good conduct included refraining from selling policy slips.

Krom on Probation

Carlton Krom, who has been on probation for some time, was sentenced to Elmira Reformatory but execution of that sentence was suspended and he was continued on probation. Krom was charged with arson at Shokan. A. J. Cook appeared for defendant.

Ledger Bail who is charged with abandonment had his case extended two weeks in order to give him time to secure a job in New York. Fred Stang said that if Ball failed on the New York job he would return to his job in Rhode Island.

It was announced that Earl Finley of 28 Adams street who was picked up on a bench warrant when he failed to pay a balance of a $200 fine for driving while intoxicated, had paid the money shortly after being arrested. He had been given several opportunities to pay but had made but little progress when the present term came along. When he failed to report in court the bench warrant was issued and he was picked up.

Clinton F. Gardiner, 26, of 112 Farrelly street who was wanted for failure to pay up a balance of a $100 fine was picked up on a bench warrant by State Troopers Reilly and Benson and later paid the money due and was released. The charge was drunken driving.

Francis Stephen Murphy, charged with abandonment, had his case continued until September 11 on his promise to make payments.

Jones Fails to Appear

William F. Jones of Ulster Park who was to appear in court in answer to an old indictment, failed to appear and his case was continued in order that his bondsman produce him.

Joseph Werner of Kingston was arraigned under a charge of possession of policy.

State Gives Approval To Michael School

Official approval of the new Myron J. Michael School has been given by the State Department of Education through the Building and Grounds division following an inspection of the school made on April 6. The final approval of the building was made on June 9 and the local school authorities have been notified.

Final approval and acceptance of the building will make it possible now for the Board of Education to authorize the final payment to the contractor, W. W. Kingston Company. The building was erected under the direction of Harry Halverson of Teller & Halverson, local architects.

It is expected that at the next meeting of the Board of Education the notice of approval by the state will be read and the building finally accepted by the board.

The landscaping at the Myron J. Michael School has been completed by Gross B. Schoonmaker of Valley Farms, Accord, who had the contract. This work was planned by Burton S. Davis, local landscape architect. The roadway around the school also has been completed.

Bids for painting the interior walls and ceilings in the school will be advertised for within a few days. Time necessary for seasoning of the walls has delayed painting.

Newcastle, N. B., June 13 (AP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth made their first appearance in the maritime provinces today in a 10-minute stop at this little town, crowded with farmers and fishermen of northern New Brunswick.

In bright sunshine the King and Queen set out from here, after being given a roaring welcome, on an automobile trip through central New Brunswick to the capital city of Fredericton.

They arrived in this province this morning with 27 days of their American tour past and three to go before they sail from Halifax on the liner Empress of Britain. Newcastle, with its 3,500 population, was the first New Brunswick town to welcome their maj-

Poultry Industry Busy at Port Ewen Unique in Nation

Kosher Foods, Inc., Establishes to Send Dressed Broilers to New York; 4 Rabbis Employed

A factory which is unique in the nation began operation this week at Port Ewen in the former Van Gonsic bus company garage. It will employ between 70 and 80 people when in full operation and a force of 40 people is already at work.

The concern, known as the Kosher Foods, Inc., dresses poultry for Kosher trade in this area and for the New York market. It represents an important impetus to local poultry farming and it is estimated that $300,000 will be spent annually in the buying of young chickens. It is the only plant of its kind in the country.

The main office of the company is at 17 10th Avenue, New York. Its president and general manager is Isidore Roth and Herman Greitz is secretary and treasurer. Local management of the plan will be in charge of D. P. Kennedy of Highland and W. B. Schwartz of Port Ewen.

Will Freeze Broilers

Between 20,000 and 30,000 broilers will be dressed weekly at the plant and from the outset most of these will be dressed and packed freshly chilled in cans holding 12 pounds each and ready for immediate shipment to the market. Later the company plans to freeze broilers for shipment to the New York market.

Four rabbis are at the plant to enforce provisions of the Jewish Kosher law and the work will be done under supervision of an inspector from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The company will offer a special incentive to local poultrymen to raise the broilers and it is expected that in the plant's later months of operation, most of the chickens will be purchased from local farmers.

'Successful in Defeat'

Alfred M. Landon was injured recently in a sailing accident, but his injuries did not prevent his receiving the degree of doctor of laws from Boston University. Here Dean Everett W. Lord of the university's law school confers the degree. The citation called Landon "sufficiently successful in defeat for president to win the love and esteem of America."

Benes' Brother Makes 'Escape' From Prague

Warsaw, June 13 (AP)—Vojta Benes, brother of the former Czechoslovak President Eduard Benes, has arrived in Warsaw after "escaping" from Prague and plans soon to proceed to England, it was learned today.

Benes declined, through friends here, to comment on his trip from Prague but informed Czech circles in Warsaw said the journey had been "quite difficult."

There were unconfirmed rumors that the "escape" included extremely arduous traveling, including swimming a river. Benes' whereabouts in Warsaw were kept secret.

Lawlor Must Stand Trial for Firing Gun Near Duchess

Eccentric Steelworker Held Also for Sending Shots Through Residence of King's Sister

London, June 13 (AP)—Llewellyn Vincent Lawlor, an eccentric middle-aged steel worker, today was ordered held for trial at Old Bailey on charges of firing shots near the Duchess of Kent and into the home of the Princess Royal.

Prosecutors at his hearing before a magistrate accused him of riding about on a bicycle with a sawed-off rifle near the residences of the British royal family and twice pulling the trigger.

Lawlor, an Australian, contended through his attorney, however, that he had "no intention of causing any harm."

Specific accusations against him were firing through the window of the Princess Royal, sister of King George and wife of the Earl of Harewood, on June 4, and one day later shooting his rifle near the Duchess of Kent, the king's sister-in-law, as she was leaving her Belgrave Square home.

The attorney for the defendant said Lawlor was eager to let the public know at the first opportunity that he had no desire or intention of causing harm or injury at either of these places and "had no designs on any member of the royal family at all."

Motive Is Mystery

His motive, however, remained a mystery immediately after proclaiming the absence of criminal intention, Defense Solicitor Leslie Marks said: "I don't think it desirable to say any more at this stage."

He entered a formal plea of innocence but did not disclose details of the defense.

Police Prosecutor H. A. K. Morgan said Lawlor, who had been working on Waterloo Bridge as a welder's assistant, had come to Britain April 6 and was an Australian.

The first charge against the prisoner was "that he did on June 5 at Belgrave Square (where the Kent residence is located) have in his possession a firearm and ammunition with intent by means thereof to endanger life or cause 'Le Roi et La Reine,'"

Landon Predicts FDR Not in Field

Roosevelt Will Decline a Third Term, He Thinks; Flays New Deal

Boston, June 13 (AP)—Alf M. Landon, Republican candidate in the last presidential election, predicted today President Roosevelt would decline to seek a third term.

At the same time, in a speech prepared for delivery before the Business and Professional Women's Club of Massachusetts, the former Kansas governor sharply criticized New Deal economics and those who urge the President to run again in 1940.

"We are in the sixth year of extraordinary government spending-to-save policy," Landon asserted, "yet discouragement and chronic unemployment are increasing. This, indeed, is the Roosevelt depression."

"The citizens who are proposing and urging a third term for President Roosevelt will be marked by the future historian as bringing disaster to the republic if they succeed in their unworthy ends."

"But there are enough Americans whose hearts are sound to

First Grade Mentor Found Not Guilty of Relating Tales of Horror

Trenton, N. J., June 13 (AP)—Reinstatement of a public school teacher accused by the parents of the pupils she taught with relating "incidents of horror" in the classroom was ordered today by State Education Commissioner Charles H. Elliott.

Elliott ruled that testimony at a hearing failed to uphold charges against Miss Olive F. Jordan, for more than 20 years a first-grade teacher in the borough of Wenhah.

The alleged "horror" tales concerned fighting between China and Japan, the story of a child killed by an automobile and another of a high school student who killed his mother.

Washington, June 13 (AP)—John L. Lewis told the CIO executive board today that the record of Congress in dealing with the unemployment problem this year is "worse than nothing."

Speaking at a meeting called to plan a new CIO organization campaign, Lewis said:

"In many ways the nation is still in crisis. Economically we now stand little ahead of where we stood four years ago. Politically we have suffered because there has been economic paralysis.

"When in nations in crisis no leadership appears which can resolve the crisis, the people become disheartened. They turn to the dangerous and irresponsible who, for the sake of power, offer benefits they cannot deliver.

"Today, therefore, a responsibility greater than ever lies upon political and industrial leaders. I do not think the people will much longer have patience with the nostalgia and the reaction of the powers of corporate business.

"Nor will they be content with timid solutions offered by government, solutions fearfully withdrawn before they can be really tested. Unless the nation is led unhesitatingly and courageously forward to the solution of its problems, we stand in danger of being engulfed by a wave of despair and black reaction. Fascism is built upon such despair and such reaction."

Lewis declared that "progressive labor is not retreating" and that sometimes political leaders had forgotten the labor movement is "enduring and deep-rooted."

The responsible agencies of Congress, he declared, "have busied themselves, in open cynicism, with tearing the vitals out of the meager provisions already existing to help the unemployed eke out a living."

The CIO president asserted that Congress had done nothing to restore jobs, improve provisions for taking care of the jobless, reserve civil liberties, or provide more rigid enforcement of labor laws.

"This is a record labor must ponder long and carefully," he said.

Young Democrats Ask New Chairman

Culloton Promotion Gives Rise to Rumors Youth Would Elect Betts

Appointment of Judge Bernard A. Culloton as an associate attorney in the Department of Taxation and Finance with specific duties in connection with the new two cent per package cigarette tax which will go into effect on July first, has already had its effects upon the local Democratic party.

Judge Culloton has held the position of chairman of the Ulster County Democratic Committee for four years since the resignation of Justice Harry E. Schirck who was elected to the Supreme Court.

A movement is already underway among the younger Democrats to put forth a campaign for election of a new county chairman, despite the statement that Judge Culloton anticipates holding the county chairmanship.

Today it was being rumored in Democratic circles that at the county convention in August there probably would be a contest for the county leader's post.

The name of James A. Betts is being advanced by the younger Democrats.

Anglo Rulers Enter Maritime Provinces, Near End of Tour

Newcastle, N. B., June 13 (AP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth made their first appearance in the maritime provinces today in a 10-minute stop at this little town, crowded with farmers and fishermen of northern New Brunswick.

In bright sunshine the King and Queen set out from here, after being given a roaring welcome, on an automobile trip through central New Brunswick to the capital city of Fredericton.

They arrived in this province this morning with 27 days of their American tour past and three to go before they sail from Halifax on the liner Empress of Britain.

Newcastle, with its 3,500 population, was the first New Brunswick town to welcome their majesties officially. Hours before the scheduled arrival at 8:20 a. m. EST, crowds gathered around the gaily decorated station for the 10-minute pause.

And even earlier, lumbermen and fishermen with their wives and children waved the blue and silver special train on its way from villages along the overnight route through the picturesque Matapedia Valley following the last official stop in French Canada, Riviere Du Loup.

Yesterday was a holiday in Riviere Du Loup and the men and women whose farms make a green and brown checkerboard along the south shore of the St. Lawrence River came to town to say French Canada's farewell to "Le Roi et La Reine."

Greaux Fined $100 On Policy Charge In County Court

Criminal Cases on June's Trial Term Might Get Disposition by Monday Afternoon

Finley Pays

Downtown Resident Who Failed to Meet $200 Fine Pays Sum

The criminal calendar for the June trial term of county court may be reached next Monday for disposition, provided the civil case scheduled to go trial Wednesday morning is concluded at that time. On the call of the calendar Monday afternoon several cases were moved for trial by District Attorney Cleon B. Murray and were set down for early disposition. There are 28 criminal cases on the calendar.

Burton Greaux of this city who was arraigned last week under a charge of possession of policy slips on May 6, was fined $100 on his plea of guilty. The fine was paid. In addition Judge Traver imposed a three months jail sentence but execution of that sentence was suspended during good behavior and Greaux was told that good conduct included refraining from selling policy slips.

Krom on Probation

Carlton Krom, who has been on probation for some time, was sentenced to Elmira Reformatory but execution of that sentence was suspended and he was continued on probation. Krom was charged with arson at Shokan. A. J. Cook appeared for defendant.

Ledgar Ball who is charged with abandonment had his case extended two weeks in order to give him time to secure a job in New York. Fred Stang said that if Ball failed on the New York job he would return to his job in Rhode Island.

It was announced that Earl Finley of 28 Adams street who was picked up on a bench warrant when he failed to pay a balance of a $200 fine for driving while intoxicated, had paid the money shortly after being arrested. He had been given several opportunities to pay but had made but little progress when the present term came along. When he failed to report in court the bench warrant was issued and he was picked up.

Clinton F. Gardiner, 26, of 112 Farrelly street who was wanted for failure to pay up a balance of a $100 fine was picked up on a bench warrant by State Troopers Reilly and Benson and later paid the money due and was released. The charge was drunken driving.

Francis Stephen Murphy, charged with abandonment, had his case continued until September 11 on his promise to make payments.

Jones Fails to Appear

William F. Jones of Ulster Park who was to appear in court in answer to an old indictment, failed to appear and his case was continued in that his bondsmen produce him.

Joseph Werner of Kingston was arraigned under a charge of possession of policy slips.

State Gives Approval To Michael School

Official approval of the new Myron J. Michael School has been given by the State Department of Education through the Building and Grounds division following an inspection of the school made on April 6. The final approval of the building was made on June 9 and the local school authorities have been notified.

Final approval and acceptance of the building will make it possible for the Board of Education to authorize the final payment to the contractor, W. W. Kingston Company. The building was erected under the direction of Harry Halverson of Teller & Halverson, local architects.

It is expected that at the next meeting of the Board of Education the notice of approval by the state will be read and the building finally accepted by the board.

The landscaping at the Myron J. Michael School has been completed by Gross B. Schoonmaker of Valley Farms, Accord, who had the contract. This work was planned by Burton S. Davis, local landscape architect. The road way around the school also has been completed.

Bids for painting the interior walls and ceilings in the school will be advertised for within a few days. Time necessary for seasoning of the walls has delayed painting.

Poultry Industry Busy at Port Ewen Unique in Nation

Kosher Foods, Inc., Establishes to Send Dressed Broilers to New York; 4 Rabbis Employed

A factory which is unique in the nation began operation this week at Port Ewen in the former Van Gonsie bus company garage. It will employ between 70 and 80 people when in full operation and a force of 40 people is already at work.

The concern, known as the Kosher Foods, Inc., dresses poultry for kosher trade in this area and for the New York market. It represents an important impetus to local poultry farming and it is estimated that $300,000 will be spent annually in the buying of young chickens. It is the only plant of its kind in the country.

The main office of the company is at 17 10th Avenue, New York. Its president and general manager is Isidore Roth and Herman Greblitz is secretary and treasurer. Local management of the plant will be in charge of D. P. Kennedy of Highland and W. B. Schwartz of Port Ewen.

Will Freeze Broilers

Between 20,000 and 30,000 broilers will be dressed weekly at the plant and from the outset most of these will be dressed and packed freshly chilled in ice, holding 12 pounds each and ready for immediate shipment to the market. Later the company plans to freeze broilers for shipment to the New York market.

Four rabbis are at the plant to enforce provisions of the Jewish kosher law and the work will be done under supervision of an inspector from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The company will offer a special incentive to local poultrymen to raise the broilers and it is expected that in the plant's later months of operation, most of the chickens will be purchased from local farmers.

Lawlor Must Stand Trial for Firing Gun Near Duchess

London, June 13 (AP)—Llewellyn Vincent Lawlor, an eccentric middle-aged steel worker, today was ordered held for trial at Old Bailey on charges of firing shots near the Duchess of Kent and into the home of the Princess Royal.

Prosecutors at his hearing before a magistrate accused him of riding on a bicycle with a sawed-off rifle near the residences of the British royal family and twice pulling the trigger.

Lawlor, an Australian, contended through his attorney, however, that he had "no intention of causing any harm."

Specific accusations against him were firing through the window of the Princess Royal, sister of King George and wife of the Earl of Harwood, on June 4, and one day later shooting his rifle near the Duchess of Kent, the king's sister-in-law, as she was leaving her Belgrave Square home.

The attorney for the defendant said Lawlor was eager to let the public know at the first opportunity that he had no desire or intention of causing harm or injury at either of these places and "had no designs on any member of the royal family at all."

Motive Is Mystery

His motive, however, remained a mystery. Immediately after proclaiming the absence of criminal intention, Defense Solicitor Leslie Marks said: "I don't think it desirable to say any more at this stage."

He entered a formal plea of innocence but did not disclose details of the defense.

Police Prosecutor H. A. K. Morgan said Lawlor, who had been working on Waterloo Bridge as a welder's assistant, had come to Britain April 6 and was an Australian.

The first charge against the prisoner was "that he did on June 5 at Belgrave Square (where the Kent residence is located) have in his possession a firearm and ammunition with intent by means thereof to endanger life or cause injury."

Landon Predicts FDR Not in Field

Roosevelt Will Decline a Third Term, He Thinks; Flays New Deal

Boston, June 13 (AP)—Alf M. Landon, Republican candidate in the last presidential election, predicted today President Roosevelt would decline to seek a third term.

At the same time, in a speech prepared for delivery before the Business and Professional Women's Club of Massachusetts, the former Kansas governor sharply criticized New Deal economics and those who urge the President to run again in 1940.

"We are in the sixth year of extraordinary government spending-to-save policy," Landon asserted, "not discouragement and chronic unemployment are increasing. This, indeed, is the Roosevelt depression."

"The citizens who are proposing and urging a third term for President Roosevelt will be marked by the future historian as bringing disaster to the republic if they succeed in their unworthy ends."

"But there are enough Americans whose hearts are sound to

Teacher Returns Not Guilty of Relating Tales of Horror

Trenton, N. J., June 13 (AP)—Reinstatement of a public school teacher accused by the parents of the pupils she taught with relating "incidents of horror" in the classroom was ordered today by State Education Commissioner Charles H. Elliott.

Elliott ruled that testimony at a hearing failed to uphold charges against Miss Olive F. Jordan, for more than 20 years a first-grade teacher in the borough of Wenonah.

The alleged "horror" tales concerned fighting between China and Japan, the story of a child killed by an automobile and another of a high school student who killed his mother.

Financial and Commercial

Stocks Were Down Volume Was Small

Stocks closed lower yesterday, but total volume was small, 424,200 shares and activity lessened on the decline. Final prices, measured in the Dow-Jones averages, showed industrial issues closing the day with a loss of 1.01 points, to 139.13; rails were down 0.40 point, to 27.93 and utilities declined 0.09 point, to 23.82.

Wheat and cotton sold off yesterday. Wheat declined 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel at Chicago in a wave of liquidation during the final hour as there were favorable crop reports from the Northeast and increased movement of new wheat in the Southwest. With selling based largely on reports from Washington cotton showed losses of from nine to 12 points.

Announcement is made that Speyer & Co., 102-year-old Wall Street banking house, will be discontinued on June 30, when James Speyer, senior partner, will retire. The firm aided the Union cause during the Civil War in marketing U. S. Government bonds. It is understood that the other partners of the firm intended to form a successor organization.

On June 9 the gold stocks of the United States passed the sixteen billion dollar mark, the total being $16,008,915,000, which is about 60 per cent of the entire monetary gold stock in the world. The total here has risen considerably more than a billion dollars since January 31.

The announcement that steel operations for this week have been scheduled at an average of 53.1 per cent of capacity, a drop of over a point from last week, came as a surprise, although the drop was a small one and indicates that there had been a revision of schedules over the week-end.

Secretary Hopkins' report that national income suffered a decline of some 10 per cent last year, but that wages earners share of the total was the largest since computation of national income was started, combined with the further fact that dividends received by those whose money finances the nation's business were down about one third, is becoming the basis for increasing concern.

Leo Volman, economics professor at Columbia, told the convention of the American Waterworks Association that more labor troubles are in sight and that regulations by law and boards does not seem to provide the answer. He said, "We thought we had the solution a few years ago in new legislation like the Wagner labor relations act and the little Wagner acts in the states, but the longer these stay in effect the more dissatisfaction develops." He added, "We have raised wages rapidly and lavishly and spent heavily, but the net effect has not accomplished the purpose. We have not raised employment or total pay-rolls to the 1929 level. The 10 years have lapsed without success. The policy has not worked."

Seiberling Rubber co. declared a dividend of $1.25 on the new five per cent Class A preferred stock for the period October 1 to December 31, 1938. Mueller Brass voted 40 cents. Singer Manufacturing declared regular quarterly of $1.50 and an extra 50 cents.

The D. L. and W. reports April net loss of $45,637, compared with net loss in April 1938 of $335,185. A survey indicates that retail sales by leading New York city men's clothing stores were showing a gain of some 25 per cent this month as compared with the same period year ago. The warm weather and influx of World's Fair visitors are given as main factors in the increase.

Marlborough

Marlborough, June 13 (AP)—The public address system, which was given to the Marlborough Central School by the Marlborough Parent-Teachers' Association, has met with the approval of the state department of education who recently inspected it. A committee headed by Mrs. Andrew Knapp, who was then president of the P. T. A., raised funds for the purchase of the outfit. The committee included about 20 Marlborough people, who worked tirelessly on the project.

After inspection of several sets, the final choice was a Bogen amplifier, which was purchased from the S. S. Sons, the price installed was $331.60. The system has many uses. Both victrola records and radio programs are enjoyed, children are taught to speak over the "micro," the loud speaker is used for the May Day program, for athletic events and for other affairs held in the auditorium. Because of its many uses to the students and to its inexpensiveness, Dr. Essex and Mr. Coons, of the building and grounds department of the state department, termed it a "unique feature."

A tribute to the late Henry R. DeWitt, who was for 18 years clerk of the Board of Supervisors, was paid last evening at a special meeting of the board when a large portrait of his was unveiled. There was revealed a large portrait of Mr. DeWitt.

The members of the board stood for a moment in silent tribute. Mr. Elsworth, who came first to the board as a clerk under Mr. DeWitt and later became a member of the body from the town of Esopus and held the position of party leader, spoke of his close associations with Mr. DeWitt and later became a member of the body from the town of Esopus and held the position of party leader, spoke of his close associations with Mr. DeWitt. He said perhaps none of those present had been so closely associated for so long a period as had he, and therefore he could not let the opportunity pass without saying a few words in memory of his friend. No one was ever more kindly or more considerate than Mr. DeWitt, and never was a clerk more willing to aid any member of the board no matter what the task might be, than the late Henry R. DeWitt, he said.

Mr. Elsworth referred to the early days when he was a clerk, or "slave" of the board. The name "slave" was one coined by Mr. DeWitt for assistants and a name which has since stuck to the assistant clerks.

A graduate of Rutgers College from which his ancestors had been graduated, Mr. DeWitt attended law school and became a lawyer. He obtained his master's degree and for a number of years practiced law. He represented this district as a member of Assembly for three years and was also a deputy county clerk. He took an active interest in county and municipal affairs and for 18 years served as a clerk of the board.

Mr. DeWitt was a man of unusual ability, a man who was very thorough and who could undertake any clerk job and accomplish it with credit.

Mr. Elsworth said that Mr. DeWitt brought something to the court house which he took away with him. It was the pleasant disposition, the spirit to aid all and a willingness to be of assistance to everyone no matter what the task might be. "He was the life of the court house," concluded Mr. Elsworth and he said there was nothing which could be more appropriate than to have the portrait placed on the walls of the building where Mr. DeWitt has labored so well and so faithfully.

Supervisor McDowell called upon Supervisor Laicher as minority leader and a member of the board when Henry R. DeWitt was clerk, to say a few words. Mr. Laicher said that his experiences with Mr. DeWitt had been most pleasant. "You will never meet a fairer-minded or broader-minded man than he who was always willing and ready to aid everyone," he said it had been a pleasure to serve on the board under Mr. DeWitt and it was men like Mr. DeWitt who made for good government.

Stocks Were Down Volume Was Small

Stocks closed lower yesterday, but total volume was small, 424,200 shares and activity lessened on the decline. Final prices, measured in the Dow-Jones averages, showed industrial issues closing the day with a loss of 1.01 points, to 139.13; rails were down 0.40 point, to 27.93 and utilities declined 0.09 point, to 23.82. Wheat and cotton sold off yesterday. Wheat declined 1 1/2 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel at Chicago in a wave of liquidation during the final hour as there were favorable crop reports from the Northeast and increased movement of new wheat in the Southwest. With selling based largely on reports from Washington cotton showed losses of from nine to 12 points.

Announcement is made that Speyer & Co., 102-year-old Wall Street banking house, will be discontinued on June 30, when James Speyer, senior partner, will retire. The firm aided the Union cause during the Civil War in marketing U. S. Government bonds. It is understood that the other partners of the firm intended to form a successor organization.

On June 9 the gold stocks of the United States passed the sixteen billion dollar mark, the total being $16,088,915,000, which is about 60 per cent of the entire monetary gold stock in the world. The total here has risen considerably more than a billion dollars since January 31. The announcement that steel operations for this week have been scheduled at an average of 53.1 per cent of capacity, a drop of over a point from last week, came as a surprise, although the drop was a small one and indicated that there had been a revision of schedules over the week-end.

Secretary Hopkins' report that national income suffered a decline of some 10 per cent last year, but that wages earners' share of the total was the largest since computation of national income was started, combined with the further fact that dividends received by those whose money finances the nation's business were down about one third, is becoming the basis for increasing concern.

Leo Wolman, economics professor at Columbia, told the convention of the American Waterworks Association that more labor troubles are in sight and that regulations by law and boards does not seem to provide the answer. He said, "We thought we had the solution a few years ago in new legislation like the Wagner labor relations act and the little Wagner acts in the states, but the longer these stay in effect the more dissatisfaction develops." He added, "We have raised wages rapidly and lavishly and spent heavily, but the net effect has not accomplished the purpose. We have not raised employment or total pay-rolls to the 1929 level. The 10 years have lapsed without success. The policy has not worked."

Solberling Rubber Co. declared a dividend of $1.25 on the new five per cent Class A preferred stock for the period October 1 to December 31, 1938. Mueller Brass voted 40 cents. Singer Manufacturing declared regular quarterly of $1.50 and an extra 50 cents. The D. L. and W. reports April net of $45,637, compared with net loss in April 1938 of $335,185. A survey indicates that retail sales by leading New York City men's clothing stores were showing gain of some 25 per cent in the month as compared with the same period year ago. The warm weather and influx of World's Fair visitors are given as main factors in the increase.

Factory sales of Studebaker during May were the largest for any month since April, 1937, and for any May since 1928. President Hoffman announced.

New York, June 13 (AP)—

With few exceptions, leading stocks shifted to the downward path in today's market. Losses ran to a point or so at the worst and dealings picked up a trifle around mid-day. There was a later contraction of volume and transfers for the five hours were at the rate of approximately 500,000 shares.

A handful of gainers was to be seen near the final hour and such selling as appeared during the session was described by brokers as "unimportant."

Wall Street sentiment seemed moderately optimistic so far as business and legislative happenings were concerned. Expected and hoped for radio programs and push through tax revision as a prop for industry.

On the cloudy side of the picture was the continuance of General Motors' labor troubles, although the company's plants were understood to be operating in a limited way notwithstanding interference of battling labor unions.

Bonds were a trifle uneven, but better than stocks. Europe seemed to take a slightly darker view of the political scene abroad, and foreign markets tended to lag. Commodities were mixed.

In arrears most of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Safeway Stores, Sperry, American Telephone, Anacoda, du Pont, Allied Chemical, Santa Fe and Texas Corp.

Lacking support in the curb were Electric Bond & Share, Lockhead, Nemont Mining and Standard Steel Spring.

Five Arabs Slain

Haifa, Palestine, June 13 (AP)—Five Arabs were slain during the night in a village of the outskirts of Haifa by a band of men dressed in European clothing.

MARLBOROUGH

Marlborough, June 13 — The public address system, which was given to the Marlborough Central School by the Marlborough Parent-Teachers' Association, has met with the approval of the state department of education who recently inspected it. A committee headed by Mrs. Andrew Knapp, who was then president of the P. T. A., raised funds for the purchase of the outfit. The committee included about 20 Milton and Marlborough people, who worked tirelessly on the project. After inspection of several sets, the final choice was a Bogen amplifier, which was purchased from State Sales Sons, the price installed was $331.60. The system has many uses. Both the orchestra and radio programs are enjoyed, children are taught to speak over the "micro," the loud speaker is used for the May Day program, for athletic events and for other affairs held in the auditorium. Because of its many uses to the students and its inexpensiveness, Dr. Essex and Mr. Coons, of the building and grounds department of the state department, termed it a "unique setup."

One hundred and fifty students of the Marlborough Central school, eight teachers and four parents, visited the New York World's Fair Saturday, when the King and Queen of England were there. Miss Harriette Robinson, a member of the school faculty, was in charge of the party. The trip was made by five of the Diamond Club members.

The program which has been made up will be as follows: Fluffy, Patricia Dall Vechia, Gypsy Dance, Mary Marks, Margaret Harris, and Charlotte Wygant.

Accompanist: Mrs. J. Calvin Wygant, Jr. Motion picture: "The Trail of the Padre." John Gable will present the pictures, and Principal Edward L. Dalby of the school will explain to all present something of the use of the machine in the school's educational program. A large attendance is expected.

SAFE AND SANE FOURTH

There is trouble enough in the world these days without adding to it the tragedy of children being killed or blinded by fireworks and firearms on the Fourth of July, says Mrs. Eleanor Brown Merrill, executive director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, in a message asking nationwide cooperation in the campaign to make the Fourth of July really safe and sane.

Records of the American Medical Association show that at least 25 deaths and nearly 8,000 serious injuries of all kinds resulted from fireworks accidents during the observance of Independence Day last year. These included approximately 300 eye injuries, 43 of which resulted in blindness in one or both eyes.

The deaths of little children, the loss of sight, the disfigurement of boys and girls, as the result of playing with fireworks or other explosives, is too high a price to pay year after year. It is the duty of everyone who values the safety of children to see that laws prohibiting the sale of explosives are strictly enforced.

Reductions in the number of Fourth of July accidents have been brought about in hundreds of cities and towns throughout the United States which have laws prohibiting the sale of fireworks. There is an ordinance in the City of Kingston regulating the sale, use and storage of fireworks used to produce pyrotechnic effects. If strictly enforced the ordinance should go far to make this year's celebration of Independence Day safe and sane. There has been marked progress in recent years over the old-time celebration. The city that permits the promiscuous firing of explosives is now the exception.

Under the provisions of the local ordinance it shall be unlawful for any person to fire, discharge or explode fireworks of any kind at any time except on Independence Day. There is also placed a limit on the size of firecrackers and certain firecrackers are banned. Section 14 of the ordinance regulates the sale of fireworks as follows: "No person selling fireworks at retail shall receive from any wholesaler, jobber or other source any fireworks at, in or upon the premises where they are to be sold at retail before the 30th day of June preceding the fourth day of July of each year, and no such persons shall offer for sale or display any fireworks on or before the second day of July or after the fourth day of July of each year, except when the fourth of July falls on Sunday, it shall be lawful to sell the same on the fifth day of July. When the fourth of July falls on Monday, it shall be lawful to sell and display fireworks on the first day of July."

If we are to have a "safe and sane Fourth of July" parents must cooperate with the police authorities. Stands will spring up along the country roads outside the city. At these stands it will be possible for any careless parent to provide his children with the means of incurring a serious accident. Children are not competent to handle explosives and neither are most adults.

JUNE IDEALISM

Much oratory is booming over the campuses these days. In baccalaureate sermons and commencement addresses elderly speakers are telling young men and women what they may expect of the world they are entering, what they may do for it, how they may serve their country or their civilization. They have been urged to "keep faith", to develop "spiritual courage", to show "moral independence", to "live in the heroic tradition", and to follow many other wise counsels.

If all the good advice given at commencement exercises through the years had been put into successful practice by the generations of young graduates, surely the world now would be well-nigh perfect. The United States of America, at least, would not be wrestling today with the evil of unemployment or the problems of crime and prejudice. That the millennium has not come, however, does not mean that the commencement oratory is all wasted or that the ideals it sets up are hopeless of attainment.

The departing seniors, their families and friends, and the many others of us who read the graduation stories in the newspapers, need this occasional summing up of the meaning and purpose of education and the fine statements of the value of idealism, courage and faith in the world. And it isn't all forgotten. Some of it sticks, and works, and humanity is the better for it.

AGE-BALANCE FOR INDUSTRY

According to Dr. W. A. Sawyer of Rochester, N. Y., medical director of a big camera company, some prevalent ideas about the relative industrial value of youth and age are silly. He wants both. "Any industry, like an army, must maintain a balance of age in order to succeed."

Youth is energetic and aggressive, but age has values just as great. The percentage of accidents is lower for men over 40, he says. Age doesn't necessarily mean lessened productivity. The steadiness of the older man, plus his experience and adaptability, is often an asset as against dynamic youth.

Employers must use good judgment in this field, he adds. If employees are dismissed when about 50, it may be the fault of the employer rather than the worker. "With adequate medical supervision, the average older employee can continue productive to a ripe old age."

They say the King on his travels drinks no water except from the Thames. Now we ask him: Did he ever hear of an American carrying Hudson or Potomac or Mississippi water to England?

Every patriot of whatever brand, with a speech in his system, will probably be footloose to Jersey City now to sound off.

EYE-STRAIN MAY CAUSE OTHER SYMPTOMS

Although most headaches are believed to be due to stomach and intestinal disturbances and a great many to sinus trouble, there is a large number that are due to eye-strain. So common are headaches due to eye-strain that headache is often considered the only or outstanding symptom, whereas eye-strain may cause symptoms in organs far removed from the eyes. Even the headache itself is not the same in different individuals and may vary somewhat even in the one individual.

Headache from eye-strain may come on slowly or rapidly. It may be over one eye or both eyes, although the ache is usually more severe over one eye than the other because one eye is usually weaker or more defective than the other.

"Headache may begin at any age, but more frequently after the first year or two at school. These headaches occur with a certain degree of regularity, perhaps once every two weeks for a while and gradually become more frequent."

As these headaches are often accompanied by nausea and vomiting it is only natural that it is blamed on some food that was eaten, eating too much food, or eating when tired.

"Some soon learn to become suspicious of their eyes because of headache following theatre-going, card-playing, car-riding, shopping, sewing, or reading too long."

In Handbook of Therapy, by Drs. Oliver T. Osborne and Morris Fishbein, it is pointed out that dizziness, stomach upset, even nausea and vomiting may occur without any headache whatever and still be due to eye-strain. Cold hands and feet, chilly sensations, faint feelings, palpitation, irregular heart beat and pain in region of the heart may be due to eye-strain and be corrected by correcting the eye defect.

Unfortunately, as eye-strain is not suspected of being the cause of headaches because of other symptoms—nausea, vomiting, cold hands and feet—many of these patients become nervous and irritable which is apt to cause more frequent attacks. These symptoms are often called "bilious attacks" and good nourishing foods may be blamed for it and left out of the patient's diet, causing further weakness and nervousness.

In cases of headache, nausea and vomiting occurring from time to time, an examination of the eyes would be good sense.

Seniors With Vocational Training Have Best Chance For Employment

By The AP Feature Service
This June's 2,500,000 college graduates—the most ever—entering a labor market already glutted.

Will the 85 per cent who look for jobs find them? Some will, of course. Science Research Associates, a Chicago organization which has gathered detailed statistics on the job situation, says immediate prospects "can hardly be considered good." Yet the outlook is considerably better than last year, though much worse than in 1937.

Many young people will fail because they go work-hunting where vacancies are least likely. The American Youth Commission discovered that 40 per cent of all youths it questioned wanted to get into professional or technical work. This is more than five times as many as are likely to find such jobs.

At least two out of every three would like to get into white collar work, though most such employment pays less than skilled labor jobs and only 30 per cent of the nation's jobs fall in the white collar class.

If the graduate lands a job, chances are he has had vocational training, or has done part-time or summer work for the company before graduation. The U. S. Office of Education reports one out of every five successful applicants has already done some work for the company. Vocational graduates had an easier time finding work and received higher wages.

What are the chances of employment in specific fields? The AP Feature Service questioned employment bureau heads at several leading colleges and studied other surveys. Many disagreed but here is the reported situation in key occupations:

ENGINEERING: Biggest demand is for aeronautical engineers, largely because of Government contracts. Chemical and mechanical engineers are easily placed too, but present increase in demand for petroleum engineers has subsided. University of California reports. Science Research Associates reports real shortage of ceramics engineers. The few women who brave the field of engineering as a career are easily placed "if they don't get married first," adds the dean of college of engineering at the University of Wisconsin.

TEACHING: Prospects are better than in past few years except for a few states where budgets have been cut. Science Research Associates estimates there will be jobs for 100,000 new elementary and secondary school teachers and for 20,000 new high school teachers. Teachers of vocational subjects and social studies are needed. Junior colleges offer good opportunities and there is a demand in colleges for journalism and accounting instructors. Most schools agree that teachers in specialized fields have better chance than those of purely academic subjects.

LAW: Lawyers, as well as doctors, are too plentiful. The profession is reported greatly over-crowded except for Government positions and specialized work such as patent law and taxes. There are about 40,000 law graduates trying to find work this June, according to Science Research Associates. Situation a little better, however, for women who have studied law. Those with proper training can find positions in social work or as secretaries to lawyers and judges—provided, of course, they are willing to put aside idea of engaging in private practice.

SELLING: This field demands newcomers. Has many more jobs than applicants, since graduates of business schools often turn to financial or advertising divisions of companies rather than the selling end. University of Maine says "Sales jobs always outnumber all others." More and more graduates are being put into company training programs. Yale reports positions are numerous in insurance home office and sales work and in manufacturing sales and production. Business school graduates and majors in economics are particularly fitted for sales jobs.

MANUFACTURING: Light industries offer most regular employment at present, Science Research Associates says. In the heavy group, steel output is at 50 per cent capacity and automobile production is slumping. Job prospects in heavy industries appear best in armament's field; it is expected that U. S. Navy yards' manpower of 50,000 will be doubled when Navy building program starts. Statisticians expect an upturn in construction to help all industry. They report great activity in the transportation field, especially trucking.

SECRETARIAL AND EDITORIAL: These are both poor fields, Yale says vacancies are least numerous in advertising, publishing and journalism, though "this situation is quite typical and should not be construed as anything peculiar to the employment market this year." The University of Wisconsin's School of Journalism says the metropolitan field is out for all applicants except experienced newspaper men. Secretarial jobs are just as hard to find, with schools turning out three times as many stenographers as are needed for jobs of that kind.

Bankers Are Fighting Movement in Congress Looking Toward Insurance of Business Loans

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 13.—To stimulate economic recovery in a time of timidity and hesitation, a movement has begun in Congress looking toward insurance of business loans. Already bankers are starting to fight the measure on the theory that it means another adventure by government in the field of banking.

This difference of opinion is typical of many others that have developed in the last five or six years, with the result that, instead of getting workable legislation in which there is wholehearted cooperation, drastic measures are passed which bring into being an entirely new set of headaches.

Unhappily, many private bankers are taking an intransigent attitude toward the help that government can give small business men in the field of credit. It is being said that all who deserve credit are getting it, that the government is about to make a series of unsound loans, that this is but another example of government inefficiency, waste, etc.

Unhappily, too, there is just the kind of argument which convinces a majority of Congress that the opposite must be true. For some strange reason, in fighting legislation, the American conservative is rarely willing to consider that perhaps there is some need instead of no need. In Britain, the conservative uses just the opposite approach. He recognizes the existence of a need, but then insists that the legislative remedy fit the need in specific form and not indulge in the generalities which take the government far afield.

Unhappily, however, there has been need of an intermediate credit system in America. Commercial banks were never designed to furnish intermediate credit, and when bankers talk about credit, they usually mean short term credit for businesses. They do not think of "mortgages" for construction as a form of bank credit, because they customarily think of 90-day loans and even nine-month loans as the type of bank credit that is used by business.

What the demand for insured loans for business comes from is that part of the credit mechanism which is really mortgage credit—for the building of plant, or facilities, or both. Banks are not expected to furnish this kind of credit, so, when the discussion of insured loans arises, the issue is complicated by appraising the credit needs of business in terms of short term rather than long term advances.

Lately, banks have been making some five and even seven-year loans. This is offered as proof that no longer is there any need for new machinery for intermediate credit. But an examination of these five and seven-year loans will show they are the exception which proves the rule and that they are customarily granted to companies which can float issues in the investment banking markets.

As for the smaller companies, unless there is a record of earnings of a gilt-edge sort, they cannot get intermediate credit. The banks properly object to joining in speculative loans. But speculative loans are what make recovery possible. Risks have to be taken by someone and the sum total of the risks taken measured against the losses will show that mortality is not as great as is commonly supposed and that payment of insurance premiums by good companies will help offset such losses among the poorer risks.

The principle is a simple one: Shall a system of insurance of private loans be established in America with government support such as is now successfully operated with respect to housing loans? Most private bankers say "no," though here and there are some progressive bankers who have sent word to the government that, with certain safeguards, it would be a wonderful thing for the banks which are not able to earn anything on their idle money.

The Wall Street point of view is that, if the government will repeal most or all of its reform measures, change the tax laws and "give business a chance," there will be no need for new laws to make intermediate credit or any other kind of credit available.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)
Patronage Proposition

Miami, Fla.—Informed he needed special permission to ride an elevator to Dade county's rooftop jail, a politician thundered at the operator, "Boy, I got you this job, and I'll see that you lose it."

"Can I depend on that?" asked the unperturbed operator.

Then the politician learned the man was a trusty, with a year to serve.

Daylight Saver

Seattle—"Can you tell me what the trouble is?" an excited woman telephoned the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

"What do you mean?" asked a reporter.

"I mean why is it so dark outside? It's just like night."

"But lady, isn't it usually dark at 9 o'clock?"

"Is it 9 o'clock at night?"

"Certainly."

"Oh, my goodness," she gasped, "I thought it was 9 in the morning. I have slept the day through."

Grown-Up

Ft. Morgan, Colo.—The way James E. Jewel, past national commander of the G. A. R. tells it, he didn't exactly prevaricate when he enlisted for the Civil War.

He was 17, but he told the recruiting officer "I'm over 18."

He had stuck a slip of paper with the numerals "18" scribbled on it in each shoe.

High Operating Costs

Omaha, Neb.—Lions and bears at Omaha's Riverview zoo have just about eaten themselves out of house and home.

Park Commissioner Roy Towl took one look at a $128 meat bill presented for a single month and decreed the surplus of lions and bears would be offered in trade for deer, elk and smaller animals—which eat hay.

Unwelcome Guests

Grinnell, Iowa—Grinnell College seniors got the sheepskins but pickpockets collected the wallets during graduation exercises.

While spectators congratulated the graduates and listened to speeches pickpockets lifted six wallets containing a total of $200.

Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins was passed up.

Protests Story of Eagle Attacking Girl

The Editor,
The Kingston Daily Freeman,
Kingston, New York.

Dear Sir:

In The Kingston Daily Freeman for June 6th I have seen the picture and caption reporting the alleged attacking of a person by an eagle. I wish to enter a strong protest against the publication of this type of so-called news. As a matter of fact, I believe it has been well proved that eagles never attack human beings. If you would care to get in touch with the National Association of Audubon Societies of New York, I think they would substantiate this as a result of investigating hundreds of such reports printed in newspapers. Particularly common is the superstition that eagles carry off babies. This also has never been proved.

On the other hand, it disappoints me that you should be giving front page importance to this sort of sensational news when the newspapers should be the ones leading the fight to secure adequate protection for our national bird.

I hope that you will be sporting enough to publish this letter.

Yours sincerely,

DANIEL SMILEY, JR.

Editor's Note: The Associated Press illustrated story, which was published in The Freeman, reported the story of Dorothy May Stallings, aged 13 years, of Cumberland, Md., who told of being attacked by an eagle and having suffered scratches on her head. Her father, Raymond Stallings, shot the bird. Game Warden William L. McKenzie identified it as an American Eagle.

Buddenhagen Is Walther President

M. J. BUDDENHAGEN

At the 28th annual convention of the Albany district of the International Walther League, held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Albany, New York, June 10 and 11, M. J. Buddenhagen of this city was elected president.

Norman Luedtke, also of Kingston, was elected vice president of the district, while Charles Fuda of Albany was named treasurer.

The delegates and guests were welcomed to the convention by Carl Mueller of Albany on behalf of the Walther League of St. Paul's Church. Paul H. Gassman also of Albany, responded to the address of welcome.

The convention was called to order by the president, Buddenhagen, and the Saturday afternoon session was taken up with reports of the various officers of the district. Several resolutions regarding timely subjects concerning "Patriotism and Loyalty," and "Flooding of Filth" were adopted and presented to the press for publication. The dedicatory resolution commemorated the memory of Dr. C. F. W. Walther, one of the pioneer immigrants to this country 100 years ago and after whom the Walther League is named.

The international offices of the Walther League were represented at the convention by W. F. Wiehmann of Chicago. Mr. Wiehmann spoke during the sessions of the convention in connection with the various reports rendered by the officers and bringing to us the message of the International Headquarters.

On Saturday evening the delegates and guests gathered at the Hotel Ten Eyck for a banquet. The toastmaster, Richard Reissig, introduced the speakers for the evening, who were: W. F. Wiehmann, main speaker, the Rev. Paul G. Prokopy, pastor of St. Paul's Church, Albany, and M. J. Buddenhagen. Vocal selections were given by Norman Luedtke and several accordian selections were given by Miss Elizabeth Newcomb of Albany.

The Walther League Convention service was held on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The members of the Walther League marched into the church singing "Onward Walther Leaguers." The convention service sermon was delivered by the Rev. Martin Duchow, pastor of Our Savior's Church, Albany. The Rev. Mr. Duchow chose as his topic, 1 Kings 8, 57-58, "The Lord our God be with us, as He was with our fathers: let Him not leave us, nor forsake us: That He may incline our hearts unto Him, to walk in all His ways, and to keep His commandments, and His statutes, and His judgments, which He commanded our fathers."

The second session of the convention covered the reports of the departments of Christian Knowledge and Christian Service and the United Youth Endeavor. All the reports of the officers showed much progress in the Albany district and also brought forth suggestions in regard to further improvements in the program of youth work in the Walther League.

After the re-elected officers were installed into office by the Rev. Martin Duchow the convention was adjourned. The convention next year will be held either at Kingston or Kinderhook.

Stocks Were Down Volume Was Small

Stocks closed lower yesterday, but total volume was small, 424,200 shares and activity lessened on the decline. Final prices, measured in the Dow-Jones averages, showed industrial issues closing the day with a loss of 1.01 points, to 139.13; rails were down 0.40 point, to 27.93 and utilities declined 0.09 point, to 23.82.

Wheat and cotton sold off yesterday. Wheat declined 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel at Chicago in a wave of liquidation during the final hour as there were favorable crop reports from the Northeast and increased movement of new wheat in the Southwest. With selling based largely on reports from Washington cotton showed losses of from nine to 12 points.

Announcement is made that Speyer & Co., 102-year-old Wall Street banking house, will be discontinued on June 30, when James Speyer, senior partner, will retire. The firm aided the nation during the Civil War in marketing U. S. Government bonds. It is understood that the other partners of the firm intended to form a successor organization.

On June 9 the gold stocks of the United States passed the sixteen billion dollar mark, the total being $16,008,915,000, which is about 60 per cent of the entire monetary gold stock in the world. The total here has risen considerably more than a billion dollars since January 31.

The announcement that steel operations for this week have been scheduled at an average of 53.1 per cent of capacity, a drop of over a point from last week, came as a surprise, although the drop was a small one and indicates that there had been a revision of schedules over the week-end.

Secretary Hopkins' report that national income suffered a decline of some 10 per cent last year, but that wages and share of the total was the largest since computation of national income was started, combined with the further fact that dividends received by those whose money finances the nation's business were down about one third, is becoming the basis for increasing concern.

Leo Wolman, economics professor at Columbia, told the convention of the American Waterways Association that more labor troubles are in sight and that regulations by law and boards do not seem to provide the answer.

He said, "We thought we had the solution a few years ago in new legislation like the Wagner labor relations act and the little Wagner act in the states, but the longer these stay in effect the more dissatisfaction develops." He added, "We have raised wages rapidly and lavishly and spent heavily, but the net effect has not accomplished the purpose. We have not raised employment or total pay-rolls to the 1929 level. The 10 years have lapsed without success. The policy has not worked."

Has Largest Tire

Harris Brown of the Brown's Servicenter, local United States tire dealer, claims that his company is displaying the largest pneumatic tire in the world. The tire is seven feet high and weighs 1,500 pounds. The inner tube weighs 100 pounds. The shoe is of thirty-four ply and its carrying capacity is 12 1/2 tons. It required three men and a derrick to change it in five hours. The tire is used on an earth-moving machine on the Hansen Dam near San Francisco.

Stocks Were Down Volume Was Small

New York, June 13 (AP).—With few exceptions, leading stocks shifted to the downward path in today's market.

Losses ran to a point or so at the worst and dealings picked up a trifle around mid-day. There was a later contraction of volume and transfers for the five hours were at the rate of approximately 500,000 shares.

A handful of gainers was to be seen near the final hour and such selling as appeared during the session was described by brokers as "unimportant."

Wall Street sentiment seemed moderately optimistic so far as business and legislative happenings were concerned. Especially hopeful were signs congress would push through tax revision as a prop for industry.

On the cloudy side of the picture was the continuance of General Motors' labor troubles, although the company's plans were understood to be operating in a limited way notwithstanding interference of battling labor unions.

Bonds were a trifle uneven, but were better than stocks. Europe seemed to take a slightly darker view of the political scene abroad. Commodities were mixed.

In arrears most of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Safeway Stores, Sperry, American Telephone, Anacosta, du Pont, Allied Chemical, Santa Fe and Texas Corp.

Lacking support in the curb were Electric Bond & Share, Lockheed, Newmont Mining and Standard Steel Spring.

MARLBOROUGH

Marlborough, June 13 — The public address system, which was given to the Marlborough Central School by the Marlborough Parent-Teachers' Association, has met with the approval of the state department of education who recently inspected it. A committee headed by Mrs. Andrew Knapp, who was then president of the P. T. A., raised funds for the purchase of the outfit. The committee included about 20 Milton and Marlborough people, who worked tirelessly on the project.

After inspection of several sets, the final choice was a Bogen amplifier, which was purchased from State Sales Sons, the price of which was $331.60. The system has many uses. Both victrola records and radio programs are enjoyed, children are taught to speak over the "micro," the loud speaker is used for the May Day program, for athletic events and for other affairs held in the auditorium. Because of its many uses, the students and to its inexpensiveness, Dr. Essex and Mr. Coons, of the building and grounds department of the state department, termed it a "unique setup."

One hundred and fifty students of the Marlborough Central school, eight teachers and four parents, visited the New York World's Fair in England, where there were Miss Harriet Robinson, a member of the school faculty, in charge of the party. The trip was made by five of the Diamond busses.

At the June meeting of the Marlborough Parent-Teachers' Association to be held Wednesday evening, June 14, election of officers for the coming year will be held. An interesting program is planned for the evening. Four girls pupils of Miss Doane's, Paffendorf, of Newburgh, will present dances, and concluding with motion pictures shown on the new machine recently purchased for school use. The present officers of the association are Charles Zachary Rogers, president; Flossie Mackey Linsig, first vice-president; Mrs. Will Plank, second vice-president; and Mrs. Raymond Schoonmaker, secretary. Mrs. Charles Polizzi, treasurer. The program which has been made up will be as follows:

Fluffy.....Patricia Dall Vechia
Gypsy Dance.....Mary Marks,
Margaret Harris, and
Charlotte Wygant
Accompanist.....Mrs. J. Calvin Wygant, Jr.

Motion picture "The Padres" John Gable will present the picture, and Principal Edward L. Dalby of the school will explain to all present something of the use of the machine in the school's educational program. A large attendance is expected.

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Rutt

YESTERDAY. Despite the fact that Packy North is the most beautiful girl in the world, she has a heart of steel. She refuses to believe Tacks' story that he saw her on the street, and fell for her the previous Sunday. Packy happened to be out of town for the weekend.

Chapter Six

Miss Dorothy South

THE terrace of the Penguin Club was deserted of all save Gus, the bartender, when Tacks returned. He entered Gus's domain with heavy tread and downcast eyes. In truth, Mr. Adams was not feeling so well. He was experiencing the same sensation that he had several years previously when, in the Yale-Harvard tussle, a beautiful forward pass had fallen into his arms behind the crimson goal-line and he had subsequently let it slip through his fingers. That had been a decidedly unpleasant feeling. But it was no worse than the one which afflicted him now. Mr. Tacks Adams had made a sorry mess of it.

Of course, it wouldn't have been important had not Miss Patricia North been so like—well, like Miss Patricia North. Resting his elbows on the bar, Tacks gazed vacantly into space and marveled upon the shifting tides of life. An hour earlier he had set forth upon his mission, whole of heart and fancy-free. He would have been prepared to bet real money that he would return in the same condition. And had he? He had not.

On the way back from Packy's apartment he had had the feeling as of one who walks in chains. Now, with the sound of the slamming door only just beginning to quit his sensibilities, he was perceiving why. He was in love, that was all, suddenly, desperately in love.

Gus cut in upon these dark musings. "Have anything, sir?" he inquired professionally.

Tacks regarded him with melancholy eye. "Listen, Gus," he said, "what's the best drink when you're feeling sunk?"

Gus set himself for weighty speech.

"Well now, I'll tell you, sir," he said. "If you've maybe got a little unsettled of your stomach, there ain't nothing like a nice glass of gin and bitters." He eyed Tacks reprovingly. "If more of you young gentlemen was to drink gin with a dash of bitters in it, a lot of these personous cocktails, you'd be doing a better job for yourselves. I often says to my missus, I says..."

Tacks interrupted. He cared not what Gus often says to his missus. "Put a bottle of gin where I can get at it," he ordered.

Gus reached for the bottle and Tacks returned to his self-upbraiding. If only he'd had the common sense to put his foot in the doorway, as Jumbo had done, and poked his head in to see what was going on. That would have been better than nothing.

Something violent assaulted his back, causing his teeth to chatter. He turned his head wearily. Jumbo, Cutler and Van Harkness stood there, grinning hatefully. "Hey, Tacks," said Jumbo, in alarm. "What's the matter? You look sort of green and kicked around." "I feel sort of green and kicked around. Go away, will you? I want to be alone."

Callousness

"WHAT'S biting you, guy?" said Van.

"Nothing," said Tacks shortly. "Gone to see your girl yet?" inquired Jumbo, unwittingly rubbing salt in an open wound.

"No," lied Tacks. "Hal," said Van, with sudden penetration. "I'll bet that's what's the matter with him. He probably saw her and she gave him the air. Well, cheer up, Tacks, my boy. Anyhow, you didn't stick your eye out like Jumbo did."

Tacks winced. What callousness! What brutality! "I don't care to discuss my—er—Miss North with you," he said.

"Okay! Let's sit down and have one. By the way, Bill's out making a pass at the East brothers."

"I wish him luck," said Tacks listlessly.

Van ordered drinks. "I know," he said, "that I agreed it was okay for Bill to bring one of these East fellows to this shindig. But, I still think he has the softest..."

The telephone, jangling behind the bar, interrupted him. "Bar," said Gus, answering it. "Who's that? Just a minute." He beckoned Tacks. "For you, sir."

To the party on the other end of the wire Tacks spoke for several minutes. And the astute observer would have gathered immediately that the person calling was pleading with Tacks for something. Whatever that something was, it seemed to be highly amusing to Mr. Adams. Despite the leaden weights oppressing his soul, a grin spread slowly over his face.

The person at the other end of the wire appeared to yammer.

"Now, now," said Tacks soothingly, "don't get excited. Just take it like a man and we'll be around shortly."

He replaced the receiver, rejoined Van and Jumbo.

"Who was that?" Van demanded sharply.

"Bill," said Tacks, still grinning. "Well, what did he want?"

"He wants us," said Tacks, "to come around to the Forty-Sixth Street Police Station and bail him out. I don't know the details, but the charge is assault and battery. It appears that William has poked some guy called Duffenderfer in the jaw."

Fruitless Fencing

"APE," said Miss Dorothy South, "if you had one more brain than you've already got, you'd still have just one."

Mr. Ape Coletti gazed at the lady who held such a trifling opinion of his mental qualifications. Mr. Coletti had a blue, granite-slab jaw; close-cropped head; the neck of a rhinoceros; and ears which could have been sold for tent flaps. No thing of beauty and joy forever, Mr. Coletti. He looked in fact like something which arrives in the wee sma' hours after a bout with lobster a la Newburg and pistachio ice-cream. But it was not exactly handsome. Mr. Coletti gave an impression of extreme capability. He was short and squat, with too-long arms and powerful shoulders, built generally along the same lines as a large designed for heavy work around the back streets of Venice. He possessed a pair of small beady eyes, light-blue in color, in which leapt not the light of human intelligence. These eyes now wandered over the figure of Miss Dorothy South as he rummaged what he was pleased to call his mind for some suitable rejoinder to her terse statement regarding the contents of his cranium. He succeeded finally in bringing forth a nifty, "Yeah," he said.

"Yeah," confirmed Miss South. "Imagine you having the crust to bawl me out—ME! Why, you big baboon, but for me you'd have been overlooking the Golden Gate from a third-story window in Alcatraz long ago."

Ape Coletti cast about him, found a convenient table and pounded it with hairy fist.

"Listen," he said, "dat ain't got nuttin' to do with it. Wot I'm tellin' you is dis: Dey ain't no dame can give me de run-around."

"Well, darling," said Miss South, in dulcet tones, "who's giving you the run-around?"

Mr. Coletti arose and pointed a short accusing finger at Miss South. So might Napoleon have comported himself when he got the goods on the Empress Josephine. So might great Caesar have charged Cleopatra with being a two-timer. But if these ladies quailed before that awful digit, they were not of the same caliber as Miss South. Miss South merely smoothed her platinum hair with slim left hand and laughed in Mr. Coletti's face.

"Ape," she said, "many's the dumb-bell that's no hot off the lower East Side. But you win the duck-toothed shaving-brush."

"Is dat a wisecrack?" inquired Mr. Coletti, with scorn.

Miss South ignored this. "Listen Ape," she said, "do you know what that guy is?"

"It don't make no never mind," Mr. Coletti said. "Nex time I catch him parkin' aroun' dis joint, I'm gonna kiss him so hard wot a pair of brass knucks dat he'll come to all covered with daisy roots."

"Is that so?" said Miss South. "I says dat's so."

Miss South appeared to consider it time to drop this fruitless fencing.

"Sit down, Ape," she said. "To begin with, the gentleman that's got you all hot and bothered is none other than Mr. Van Rypper Harkness."

Mr. Coletti looked as if he would like to spit.

"Van Rypper?" he exclaimed disgustedly. "Wot a sissy moniker!"

"Is it," Miss South inquired sweetly, "any worse than Harold?"

Mr. Coletti winced. Among the other millions which had been hung around his rhino neck at birth was the wholly unsuitable name of Harold. Under "Harold" the Pride of the Colettis had been forced to chafe until, having won his spurs in gangland, the more picturesque and acceptable cognomen of "Ape" had been bestowed upon him. But though the horror of Harold was fast becoming a vanishing memory, memory still carried its sting.

"Nobody," the Ape stated now, "can call me Harold an' get away wid it."

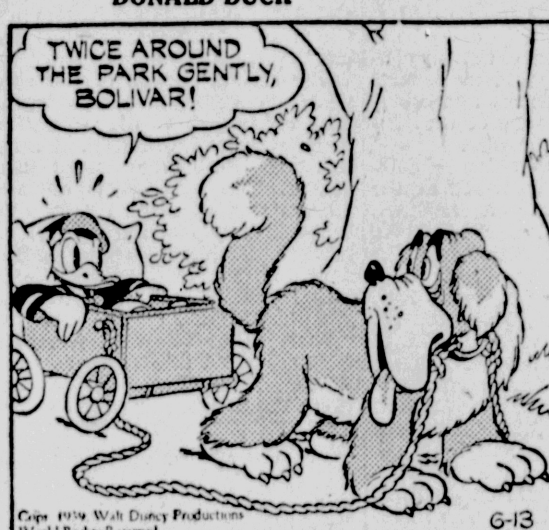

Miss South waved a hand. "I'm not interested in your foolish name," she said. "I'm asking you if you know who Van Rypper Harkness is?"

"An I'm tellin' you," replied the Ape, "dat I ain't never hoid of him."

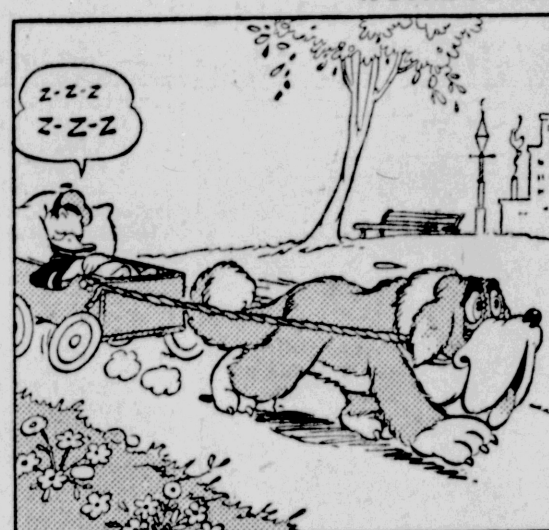

"Which shows," said Miss South promptly, "that if you'd did a little more reading of the Social Register and a little less of Daily Racing Form, you'd know Van Rypper Harkness comes from one of the oldest and richest families in New York."

YOU CAN'T BLAME HIM

Mugs—Wat's de best way ter teach a gill ter swim? Bill—Foist yer want to take her gently down to de water, put yer arm around her waist, and— Mugs—Aw, cut it out. It's me sister. Bill—Why didn't yer say so? Push her off de dock.

The story is told about an old friend who chanced to meet Woodrow Wilson in England. He had not seen Mr. Wilson for many years. "You look very much like a minister," said the friend. "Have you ever been taken for one?" "No," replied Mr. Wilson, "but I've been treated like one."

"That's interesting." "Yes, I had a job once where I waited six months for my salary."

We are worried because so many of our former worries have been taken over by the government.

For several minutes the young man did not speak. His head was too full. It was enough for him to know that this glorious creature loved him, that she had promised to be his wife.

With a new and delightful sense of ownership, he feasted his eyes upon her beauty, and realized that henceforth it would be his privilege to provide for her welfare and happiness.

His good fortune seemed incredible. Finally, he whispered tenderly: "How did it happen, darling, that such a bright shining angel as yourself fell in love with a dull, stupid fellow like me?"

She (absently)—Goodness knows, must have been a screw loose somewhere.

Little things make big differences. For that reason, among others, it is well to watch little things.

Exasperated wife (to her wayward husband)—The night before last you came home yesterday. Last night you came home today. If you come home this evening tomorrow morning, I'll go straight home to mother.

The biggest operation on record must have been Lansing, Michigan. Health Digest.

Agent—Why do you want fire insurance on your husband? That won't be any help when your husband passes away.

Young Bride—It's so much cheaper than life insurance and you see I intend to have him cremated.

The secret of success is making hay with the grass that grows under other peoples feet.

Unemployment Census Taker—Really, Miss, it's essential that your correct age be entered on the card.

Spinster Duff—Well, er, 43, but please write it as illegibly as possible.

Most work is interesting enough if we devote our complete interest to its accomplishment.

Soon will come the vacation season and it may be your job to wash some fair one how to swim. It seems to make a difference in this case who the candidate is:

Miss Ollie Burgher and the Davis family were also included in the party. Later in the evening several members of the group enjoyed fishing in the frying pan of the east basin of the reservoir. The entire catch numbered one bullhead and three rock bass.

Woodland admirers are enjoying the unusual beauty of the mountain laurel on cleared hill-sides. The colors range from deep pink to a pale white. Early roses and peonies are in full bloom in gardens, while the meadows are equally gorgeous with daisies, buttercups and devil's paintbrush.

Parks Will Operate Summer Day Camp

Girl Scouts Go To Camp in July

Camp Wendy, the Girl Scout camp on the Borden Estate near Walkkill will open July 2 and will be the scene of busy activity until August 27.

Camping is one of the big activities in the Girl Scout program and the life of a Girl Scout is not complete unless it has included all phases.

Girl Scout camps offer a program of activities carefully adapted to the skills of three age groups in Girl Scouting, the seven to 10-year-old Brownies, the 10 to 14-year-old Girl Scouts and the 14 to 18-year-old seniors. Swimming, hiking, Gypsy trips, arts and crafts, choral speech dramas and music are some of the activities.

At a Girl Scout camp the code of scouting, tolerance, helpfulness, honesty and self-discipline colors all activities. In the constant give and take of the small group the girl learns her right to a voice in the day's events and the right of every other individual to the same privilege. This system also provides opportunities for growth and social living. It insures quick friendships and the greater possibility of satisfying the interests of each girl.

All this the Girl Scout camp provides at a moderate cost well within the means of those whose purse strings are short. Camp Wendy rates for Ulster county

Tribute Is Paid Henry R. DeWitt

A tribute to the late Henry R. DeWitt, who was for 18 years clerk of the Board of Supervisors, was paid last evening at a special meeting of the board when a large portrait of his was unveiled. At the opening of the meeting Clerk Fred Stang called attention to the picture which was draped with a small American flag and asked Chairman Robert Snyder to remove the flag. There was revealed a large portrait of Mr. DeWitt.

County Attorney Roscoe V. Elsworth extended the floor and spoke of his associations with Mr. DeWitt and of his record as an attorney, a legislator and as clerk of the board. Only three members of the board who served when Mr. DeWitt was clerk six years ago are now members of the board. They are Dr. H. P. Van Wagenen, Albert Cashdollar and Carl Laicher.

When the portrait was unveiled

The members of the board stood for a moment in silent tribute. Mr. Elsworth, who came first to the board as a clerk under Mr. DeWitt and later became a member of the body from the town of Esopus and held the position of party leader, spoke of his close association with Mr. DeWitt and later from the town of Esopus and held the position of party leader. He said perhaps none of those present had been so closely associated for so long a period as had he, and therefore he could not let the opportunity pass without saying a few words in memory of his friend. No one was ever more kindly or more considerate than Mr. DeWitt and never was a clerk more willing to aid any member of the board no matter what the task might be than the late Henry R. DeWitt, he said.

Mr. Elsworth referred to the early days when he was a clerk, or "slave" of the board. The name "slave" was one coined by Mr. DeWitt for assistants and a name which has since stuck to the assistant clerks.

A graduate of Rutgers College from which his ancestors had been graduated, Mr. DeWitt attended law school and became a lawyer. He obtained his master's degree and for a number of years practiced law. He represented this district as a member of Assembly for three years and was also a deputy county clerk. He took an active interest in county and municipal affairs and for years served as a clerk of the board.

Mr. DeWitt was a man of unusual ability, a man who was very thorough and who could undertake any clerk job and accomplish it with credit.

Mr. Elsworth said that Mr. DeWitt brought something to the court house which he took away with him, it was the pleasant disposition, the spirit to aid and a willingness to be of assistance to everyone no matter what the task might be. "He was the life of the court house," concluded Mr. Elsworth and he said there was nothing which could be more appropriate than to have the portrait placed on the walls of the building where Mr. DeWitt has labored so well and so faithfully.

Supervisor McDowell called upon Supervisor Laicher as minority leader and a member of the board when Henry R. DeWitt was clerk, to say a few words.

Mr. Laicher said that his experiences with Mr. DeWitt had been most pleasant. "You will never meet a fairer-minded or broader-minded man than he who was always willing and ready to aid everyone," he said it had been a pleasure to serve on the board under Mr. DeWitt and it was men like Mr. DeWitt who made for good government.

Shower Bath Useful

Addition of a shower to a bathroom increases its usefulness and can be achieved now in both the leg type and the built-in type of tub. There is a variety of equipment on the market, and the home owner may select one of the new types of showerheads said to effect a water savings of 25 to 50 per cent over the old style. Showers can be installed in any built-in bathtub by an experienced plumber in short order. Such showers involve no changing of pipes; they are permanent, fully automatic with a minimum number of moving parts, and low in cost and economical in the use of water.

will be in charge of a meeting in Poughkeepsie, when the new tax law will be explained to dealers of Orange, Greene, Dutchess, Ulster, Columbia and Putnam counties.

Judge Culloton after graduating from old Ulster Academy and Fordham Law School, was admitted to the bar in January, 1929, and later in the year was elected city judge of Kingston, which position he held for four years. He was re-elected in 1933 for another four year term, which expired in 1937 when he devoted himself to the practice of law.

Judge Culloton some years ago was widely known as a baseball player, and for several years was first string pitcher of the old Kingston Colonials. In 1924, when the Pittsburgh Pirates played the Colonials here, the judge twirled such an excellent game against the Pirates that they signed him. He was with the Pirates when they won the world's championship from the Washington Senators in 1925.

During the World War he served with Headquarters Company of the 11th Regiment Field Artillery at Camp Jackson, South Carolina.

Graduates Honored At Church Banquet

On Friday evening members of the official board of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church and their wives, husbands and friends played host at a banquet for more than 15 graduating students of the high school, business schools and colleges who were members of the church. Parents of the students also were honored guests.

Vernon Miller acted as the toastmaster of the evening and was the songleader for the group, accompanied by Mrs. Raymond H. Rignall at the piano. Following several songs, in which everyone joined in heartily, little Jean and Ronald Ross rendered two popular novel solos for the entertainment of the guests.

The Rev. William R. Peckham, pastor of the church, was instrumental in planning this special event and Mrs. Robert Thompson was chairman of the banquet committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hahn entertained in a delightful manner with a novel selection entitled "Bon Jour, Ma Belle," following which H. A. Miner, principal of School No. 6, spoke briefly, giving the honored June graduates a bit of well deserved praise and advice. He pointed out, "the person who touches the most points in life enjoys the greatest happiness."

Mrs. Raymond H. Rignall sang two numbers, accompanied by Vernon Miller at the piano and Miss Virginia Mae Carle rendered two enjoyable violin selections, accompanied by Joyce Kirchner at the piano.

John H. Garrison, retiring principal of No. 8 School, then congratulated the guests, wishing them success and happiness.

Following these congratulatory messages, Vernon Miller sang another appropriate number entitled "Wishing." The special guests were asked to express their plans for the future and all present thanked their hosts and told of their desired vocations.

Those attending the banquet were June Crandall, Helen Schoonmaker, Erma Tigar, Doris Pope, Donald Weeks, Arthur Crist, Esther Van Gaasbeek, June Myers, Clayton Brower, Clifford Johnson, Anna Hines, June Mergendahl and Charles Falkner from Kingston High School; Evelyn Jones, Mildred Palen, Elizabeth Heaps, Gordon Craig and William Stall from Business School; Lorren Evely, a student at New Paltz Normal School, and Jason Carle, a student at Rider College.

Tribute Is Paid Henry R. DeWitt

A tribute to the late Henry R. DeWitt, who was for 18 years clerk of the Board of Supervisors, was paid last evening at a special meeting of the board when a large portrait of his was unveiled. ## Shower Bath Useful

Addition of a shower to a bathroom increases its usefulness and can be achieved now in both the leg type and the built-in type of tub.

There is a variety of equipment on the market, and the home owner may select one of the new types of showerheads said to effect a water savings of 25 to 50 per cent over the old style. Showers can be installed in any built-in bathtub by an experienced plumber in short order. Such showers involve no changing of pipes; they are permanent, fully automatic with a minimum number of moving parts, and low in cost and economical in the use of water.

will be in charge of a meeting in Poughkeepsie, when the new tax law will be explained to dealers of Orange, Greene, Dutchess, Ulster, Columbia and Putnam counties.

Judge Culloton after graduating from old Ulster Academy and Fordham Law School, was admitted to the bar in January, 1929, and later in the year was elected city judge of Kingston, which position he held for four years. He was re-elected in 1933 for another four year term, which expired in 1937, when he devoted himself to the practice of law.

Judge Culloton some years ago was widely known as a baseball player, and for several years was first string pitcher of the old Kingston Colonials. In 1924, when the Pittsburgh Pirates played the Colonials here, the judge twirled such an excellent game against the Pirates that they signed him. He was with the Pirates when they won the world's championship from the Washington Senators in 1925.

During the World War he served with Headquarters Company of the 11th Regiment Field Artillery, at Camp Jackson, South Carolina.

YEARS DEAL KINDLY WITH THE NATION'S LEADING JUSTICE, CHIEF JUSTICE HUGHES

AGE MAY RULE—Back in 1906, the present chief justice of the U. S. supreme court, Charles Evans Hughes, was an arm-waving, silk-hatted orator campaigning for the governorship of New York. ## History Society To Honor Clinton

Willis G. Nash, a vice president of the Ulster County Historical Society, was elected vice chairman of the committee which is arranging for the celebration in Newburgh on July 26, of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Clinton, first governor of New York state, whose body rests in the churchyard of the old Dutch Church in Kingston. Judge Hasbrouck, president of the society, was named as a member of the executive committee for the celebration.

The action was taken at a meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in Newburgh Monday night, attended by representatives of Orange, Ulster and Dutchess county societies. The Ulster county society was represented by a committee named by President Hasbrouck, consisting of Willis G. Nash, Mrs. Charlotte W. Tappen and Ben M. Taylor. Joseph E. Hasbrouck, of Modena, a member of the society, also was present, but came as a representative of the New Paltz society. He was made a member of the executive board, as were William J. Coulter, of Middletown, Mayor Wendell Phillips, of Port Jervis and George W. Whitaker of the Newburgh Chamber of Commerce. Later a motion provided that a representative from each of the patriotic societies in the area be added to the board.

It developed at the meeting, which was attended by about 25 people, that the Newburgh Society had already made considerable progress in plans for the celebration. Mrs. R. H. B. Barr, past president of the D. A. R. and president of the Patriotic Societies, presided at the meeting and at her suggestion LeGrand Pelletier of Newburgh Historical Society was elected general chairman and Senator Thomas C. Desmond honorary chairman of the general committee. Miss Mildred Deyo of Newburgh was elected secretary and R. H. B. Barr, treasurer.

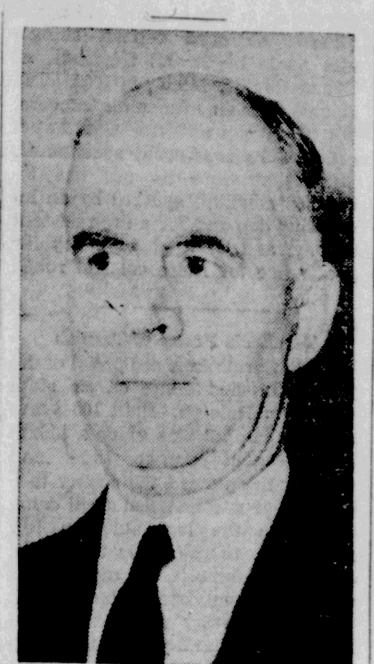

William Jenkins, secretary to Senator Desmond, told of the prizes which had been offered by the senator for the best papers to be written by teachers in the schools of the state on the public service given by George Clinton as first governor of the state. There are four prizes—$100, $75, $50 and $25—and papers are to be limited to 2,000 words and must be in the committee's hands by July 1.

On motion it was decided that the writer of the winning paper should be the main speaker at the anniversary celebration and at the suggestion of the Rev. Elwood Corning it was voted to invite Congressman Hamilton Fish of the 26th District to be one of the speakers.

Further details of the program were left with the executive committee.

It seemed to be understood that the anniversary exercises would be held in Newburgh although there was no definite decision as to just where they would take place.

Farewell Dinner For Rev. C. Brown

REV. CLARENCE E. BROWN

Final arrangements are being made to accommodate the large number of friends and guests who will attend the testimonial farewell dinner for the Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Brown, which will be held Thursday evening at 6:15 o'clock at the church parlors of the Wurts Street Baptist Church.

Invitations have been limited but there are still a few remaining which may be secured from any member of the Men's Club.

Frederic Snyder, lecturer, will be the speaker of the evening. Attorney Roger Loughran will act as toastmaster.

A well planned program has been arranged and a delightful evening is promised those attending.

18 Students Suspended

Baltimore, June 13 (AP)—School authorities suspended 18 high school students today in an investigation of an alleged attack by 40 boys on a Jewish youth. He accused them of having carved the letter "H" on his neck after they inked swastikas on their own arms. City Councilman Leon Abramson said he would try to find out why school authorities did not report the matter to police on Friday when it occurred.

Some expressed the opinion that the Washington's Headquarters grounds would be the most desirable selection.

Among those present Monday night was Dr. J. Wilson Poucher, secretary of the Dutchess county society. Asked as to Governor Clinton's residence in Dutchess county, he said that from 1777 to 1783 he lived in Poughkeepsie and that following his official activities he built a house in Dutchess county and lived there, but so far as he had been able to learn, none of the houses in that county which he had occupied was standing today.

State Predicts Hay Crop Will Be Short

Albany, N. Y., June 13 (AP)—

Agriculturists predicted today a shortage of hay in New York state as a result of the prolonged dry spell and forecast severe damage to other crops unless rain soon relieves drought conditions.

"Hay and pastures definitely are hurt," said R. L. Gillett, chief statistician of the State Agriculture Department. "Other crops are backward, their growth has been retarded. If the dry weather continues, we face a disastrous situation."

Niagara County Farm Bureau Agent D. M. Dairymple reported the dry spell, in addition to cutting the hay crop, has damaged cabbage, pea and oat crops as well as some fruits, while Leslie R. Stutzman, state agriculture market reporter at Rochester, said strawberries also have been damaged in that area.

Howard H. Campbell, Nassau county Farm Bureau manager, said early potatoes, sweet corn and cabbage on Long Island needed rain badly and that farmers there were "thoroughly alarmed."

Wells in some farming areas have begun to dry up, farm agents reported. Some villages and towns in the state have cautioned residents to use water sparingly due to threatened shortages.

crats who are claiming that other counties in the Republican column are receiving more appointments to state and federal jobs at the hands of the Democratic party than is Ulster county. Dutchess county is being held out as one of the counties which has been receiving a great deal of patronage. Whether the movement will gain sufficient momentum between now and August to make a worthwhile showing cannot be predicted.

Abandonment Charges

William Merecka, 33, of Kerhonkson, was arrested at Waverun Monday by Deputy Sheriff Winne and Brown on a bench warrant, the charge being abandonment. He was held at the Ulster county jail. Harvey M. Crowder, 25, of Balmville, also was held on a similar charge, pending a hearing before Justice P. A. Lyon, following his arrest by Trooper Martin.

stop them. Here indeed the republic has a rendezvous with destiny. However, I don't believe any man with the exaltation and the sense of public service and patriotism that comes from the high office of the presidency will accede to such demands.

"The President, worthy of the trust reposed in him by his fellow citizens, will disdain this suggestion made to him by meaner souls."

Landon said the question of which party wins the next election is not as important as the type of statesmanship we may expect from the next President.

"The fantastic financial theories of the New Deal which have proven a failure in achieving recovery must not be permitted to remain unchecked, or to become a permanent part of our national life. We must get a foundation for a sound recovery and getting our people back to work."

"Then the problem of the next Republican President may well be preventing normal healthy recovery from turning into run-away boom. At the risk of his very reputation he must be prepared to put on the brakes in time, and if he fails we will be facing the truly desperate situation of another bust. And if that happens, God pity us all."

Lewis linked to his discussion of a new organizing drive, a charge that the RFL had struck "foul blows" during the rivalry between the two organizations for supremacy in the labor field.

The CIO will not tolerate that policy," he said.

serious injury to property contrary to the firearms act of 1937." The prosecutor told the magistrate today that 21 rounds of ammunition for the seized one-foot-long sawed off rifle were found in Lawlor's possession, together with 10 airgun pellets. One thousand more pellets were found at Lawlor's lodgings, the prosecutor declared.

A bullet hole was found in a window of the residence of the princess royal and her husband, the Earl of Harewood, on the same day the shooting took place in Belgrave Square. Apparently it was made on the night of June 4.

Morgan said it had now developed that the gun permit which he said Lawlor flourished as an excuse for his action in Belgrave Square had on the back of it notations of the Belgrave Square address of the Kents and the Green street address of the princess royal.

The prosecutor quoted Lawlor as explaining that his gun had jammed a few days before and he was "trying to undo it when it went off."

The Duchess of Kent and a companion, Lady Portarlington, had just entered the duchess' automobile, en route to a movie, when the shot was fired. The car was not hit.

The prosecutor said Lawlor's story was complicated by a remark that he had carried the gun with him "several days when going to Buckingham Palace and Windsor." The prosecutor quoted the accused man as saying, "I wanted to see the dukes and kings."

The weapon, Morgan told the court, was a 22-caliber gun of German manufacture. "The stock and barrel have been sawed off with the result that accurate shooting is quite impossible," he said.

Lawlor refused to sign a statement, the prosecutor said, but remarked, "I wanted to see the duke (of Kent)."

The Kents are going to Australia in November for the duke to take the post of governor-general.

Corning Bill Approved

Albany, June 13 (Special)—Approval of Governor Herbert H. Lehman has been given to a bill continuing the existence of the Hudson River Valley Scenic and Survey Commission to March 1, 1940. The bill, sponsored by Senator Erastus Corning, 2nd, of Albany, carries an appropriation of $1,000. Senator Corning is chairman of the commission.

Notes on Permit

Morgan said it had now developed that the gun permit which he said Lawlor flourished as an excuse for his action in Belgrave Square had on the back of it notations of the Belgrave Square address of the Kents and the Green street address of the princess royal.

Authorities Seek Alleged Swindler

Ulster county authorities are searching for a mysterious "Thomas Gallo" accused of perpetrating a $2,800 swindle on Samuel Fiscella, Vineyard avenue, Highland, farmer, on April 5.

"Gallo" gave his address as Brooklyn, and according to the authorities obtained the money on the promise to develop Fiscella's holdings and net him some $60,000 profit.

The $2,800 that "Gallo" obtained, according to the authorities, was to be used to pay off a $5,000 mortgage on some of "Gallo's other holdings" thus clearing the way for their liquidation to make available the other money necessary to develop the Fiscella holdings.

"After he got the $2,800, it was the same old story," say the authorities, "he hasn't been seen since."

"Gallo" according to information stayed for three weeks in Highland and while there made friends of many persons in the village. He is described as a persuasive individual who painted a glowing picture of the plans he had in store for the development of Fiscella's place.

He is described as being a short, stout man with a red face and several gold crowns in his mouth. He also wore a diamond horseshoe pin most of the time.

The investigation being carried on by the B. C. I. men has disclosed, it is stated, numerous activities by Mr. "Gallo" since his stay here.

In one case a woman who owns a fruit farm near Highland is said to have been offered $47,000 for her property. Finally, it was disclosed, the would-be buyer had discovered gold on the farm. The woman in question consulted with George Hudson of Highland. The latter assured her that $47,000 certainly was a good price for her property and advised her to take the money—in cash—and let Mr. "Gallo" have any gold he could find on the farm.

The stranger, whose address was given only as Brooklyn, is said to have found it comparatively easy to arouse the interest of numerous people in his plans. Among schemes he proposed was one to purchase the Tamney House and in another instance he is reported to have sat in conference with certain bank officials in an attempt to secure certain property in which they were interested.

Trooper Metzger said this morning that a man answering the description of Mr. "Gallo" was alleged to have been engaged in activities of a questionable nature in Brooklyn and on Long Island and that an investigation of that territory was being made.

Byron Nelson Is National Open Golf Champion

Mile King Arrives

Here's another king—just in from England. He's Sydney Wooderson, 24-year-old English miler who holds the official world's record at 4 minutes 6.4 seconds. He's shown arriving in New York on his way to Princeton to defend his crown against Glenn Cunningham June 17.

Promised Land Defeats Roselands

Sunday morning at the Athletic Field the Promised Land Sluggers defeated the Roseland nine in a fast and enthusiastic game of baseball.

In spite of the fact that Phil Carrado, shortstop for the winners, had an off day, being credited with five errors, the milk and honey boys came through with a score of 9-5.

NELSON WINS OPEN GOLF PLAY-OFF

Victor in the second play-off necessary to determine the U. S. open golf champion, Byron Nelson, (right) Reading, Pa., professional, shakes hands with Craig Wood of Mamaronck, N. Y., his dogged opponent. Following a triple tie with Denny Shute at the conclusion of 72 holes Saturday, Wood and Nelson tied again Sunday with 68's, necessitating another 18 holes on which Nelson scored 70, Wood 73.

MAKE WAY FOR THE NEW CHAMPION

With his wife hanging onto his arm, Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., leaves the 18th green of the Philadelphia Country Club's Spring Mill course, following his victory over Craig Wood in the second play-off necessary to decide the open golf championship. Guards clear the way through the large gallery which followed the match.

Philadelphia, June 13 (AP).—When the final history of golf is written by the great official scorer, there should be somewhere near the front a special section devoted to Craig Wood, the man who came closer to winning more big championships than any divot digger who ever lived. And who continued to smile as he went to the next tee.

Craig completed his reverse "grand slam" yesterday when he lost by three strokes to young Byron Nelson in the second 18-hole playoff for the national open title at the Spring Mill course. For 72 holes of the tournament proper and through Sunday's sun-scorched round the 37-year-old "never won" battled the new champion stroke for stroke. Finally, as Nelson pounded out his 70 yesterday, Wood went down fighting to the last ditch and bunker.

Lost 4 Big Ones

Wood now has lost playoffs for the four greatest titles in reach of a professional. Denny Shute outlasted him in the British open. Paul Runyan beat him in a 38-hole final for the P. G. A. crown. Gene Sarazen shot his famous "double eagle" to tie Wood in the Augusta masters and then trim him in the playoff. Yesterday Craig must have drained the last, bitter drops, but he entered the locker room with a quip on his lips.

Nelson, of the youthful "royal family" of American golf, was explaining exultantly from an adjoining bench that he thought he had won the playoff on the 14th hole, where he sank a 10-footer to go three up.

"Nope, it wasn't there," said Wood. "It was these holes in one he shot into me right at the start."

He was right. Nelson practically stiffened his man before the battle was well under way. A brilliant birdie three on the third hole and then a sensational eagle two on the 453-yard fourth—a one-two punch that Joe Louis would have envied—put him four strokes ahead of Wood and virtually erased any doubt of the outcome.

This was the colorful scene at Cooperstown, N. Y., as crowds and famous baseball players gathered to celebrate the 100th anniversary of baseball. Here's a team costumed a la 19th century—moustaches, beards and all—parading out on Doubleday Field. The field is at the spot where Abner Doubleday's pitchers first trotted into action a century ago to play the game he had just invented.

Babe Ruth Is No. 1 Hero At Baseball Centennial

By Robert C. McCormick

Cooperstown, N. Y., June 13 (AP).—Baseball's number one hero still can steal any big league show he sets his mind to, even from under the noses of the game's only other living immortal.

From the moment he stepped from the train and spread his infectious grin over the crowd, Babe Ruth really took over yesterday's celebration of the 100th anniversary of the national game. With-out him it would have lost some of its glamour.

Ruth was in the center of the largest crowd, writing his name on baseballs, score cards, envelopes and everything autograph hunters could find. When Ty Cobb arrived for the ceremonies, a bit later, he walked unrecognized. A block away, Ruth came out of a hotel and the fans went mad.

It was the same when they called ten of the eleven living members of the game's hall of fame out to answer roll call at the dedication of the baseball museum. There was applause for Connie Mack, Hans Wagner, Eddie Collins, Tris Speaker, Walter Johnson, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Cy Young, George Sisler and Napoleon Lajoie. Then Ruth stepped out and brought down the house.

Later, most of the immortals donned their old-time uniforms and formed a board of strategy for two teams of modern stars chosen by Eddie Collins and Hans Wagner.

When things lulled temporarily, the Bam put on his grin, picked up a bat and waddled out of the dugout to hit for bespectacled Daffy MacFadden. He let the first go by and swung at the next but the old zip wasn't there. He hit a high foul over the stands on his next try and then belted a high one out to Catcher Arndt.

Jorgens directly in front of the plate. It was worth the trip alone to hear the crowd beg Jorgens to drop it. After that, the Wagners won, 4-2.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

It seems at the moment the most important word in baseball is "spirit."

The sentimental gentlemen who paid tribute to the spirit of baseball yesterday at Cooperstown, N. Y., were, in a sense, fitting nicely into the picture that has made the three New York teams—the Yankees, Giants and Dodgers—just about the hottest things in baseball.

Though much of the Cooperstown celebration was abstract, there isn't anything abstract about the fire and dash—or spirit, if you prefer—that marks the rise of those three ball clubs.

The Brooklyn Dodgers are the National League's pet rage. They swing west for an 18-day, 14-game stand 'way up in the first division with a record of 13 victories in their last 18 games, and 20 victories out of 30 starts at home.

Though their offense and defense seem sound, critics are busy writing stirring pieces about how the spirit of the Dodgers makes them a greater team than any Brooklyn outfit since 1932, the last year they finished up in the front rows.

Crucial Series

They're only a game and a half behind the St. Louis Cardinals, with whom they have a "crucial" series starting Wednesday — and there are some who think the Redbirds will be trying to catch on to the Dodgers' coat-tails when the series is over. A successful trip through the west and there'll be no living with those Flatbush fans, who take their baseball as seriously as a co-ed does her first date.

And the Giants, who have been booed almost oftener this season than they have been praised, are at peak performance as they set out on their second invasion of the west. Five straight, their longest current victory streak, may be stretched into two figures before they head back for the Polo Grounds, because it is admitted that the Giant machine, possibly for the first time this year, is clocking as Bill Terry promised it would. Bill says the boys finally have got "the right spirit."

One Dark Cloud

The finger injury to Burgess Whitehead is the only dark cloud

on the Giant horizon. Whitehead's place at second base will be taken by Alex Kampouris, who should do nicely, especially if he keeps on hitting those game-winning homers.

The Yankees' whose three inter-divisional series with the Tigers, Indians, Browns and White Sox have produced 24 victories out of 29 games, will open a home stand that bears every promise. DiMaggio, for one thing, is back in there swinging from the heels and that's always good news for the Yanks.

Most interesting item chronicled during the off-season came from Will McKechnie, boss of the league leading Cincinnati Reds, who weren't treated with the proper respect by the Giants or the Dodgers.

Will said he thought the Giants were better than a fifth place club and that the Dodgers were destined to improve their position. To the credit of the league he seemed positive that "there won't be a pennant won in this league for a long time."

And lest the eastern fans get too excited over the Giants and the Dodgers, Will said, "we should get better."

Japan Wants U. S. Athletes

Tokyo, June 13 (AP).—To promote friendly relations with the United States, the Japan board of tourist industry is drafting a plan to bring 20 outstanding American athletes to Tokyo this summer.

Exactly what kind of athletes has not yet been decided, but officials said the majority probably would be trackmen and swimmers. The Amateur Athletic Federation has been asked to co-operate with the A. A. U., in the United States in selecting the best of this year's crop.

Baltimore—Harry Jeffra, 123½, Baltimore, former bantamweight champion, outpointed Al Mancini, 126, Providence (8).

New York—Irish Johnny Mack, 138, New Britain, Conn., knocked out Mickey Frazer, 136, New York (5).

WHOLE HAND OR NONE

FEDERATION LEAGUE

The Presbyterians, Federation League leaders, crashed out a 19 to 3 victory over Albany Avenue Baptist last evening to further entrench themselves in first place.

Led by Manager Clifford S. Van Valkenburgh's home run hitting the club had an easy time of the Albany Avenue players. While the Presbyterians were winning the Fair Street Dutchmen were also piling up a 13 to 1 victory over Wurts Street Baptists.

"Cutie" Newkirk abandoned his tennis game to pound out a home run for the only score in the first for the Dutchmen but in the third coming to bat again he lifted another circuit bouncer. Not content with two he came back in the sixth and drove out his third homer of the game, a record in the league. In the third inning Fair Street went to town and scored seven runs. It was not until the sixth that a home run tallied the Baptists' only run. In the St. James vs. Trinity M. E. game no score was reported to the secretary.

A return match will be played at the Stamford Club Sunday, July 2.

Dairymen Assault 3 Hurlers; Celuch Whiffs 12 Icemen

Joneses Score Five Runs in 5th; Wiltwycks on Again Tonight Against Boiceville

Unleashing a 14-hit barrage on a trio of hurlers, Jones Dairy mauled the Wiltwycks for a decisive 11-4 triumph in last night's City League clash. Assaulting Bucky Ashdown, Komosa and Astolas, the Dairymen enjoyed a field day with the willow as they moved up on the idle, league-leading Independents. Georgie Celuch, youthful "meal-ticket," smoked his slants past 12 Wiltwyck whiffers and scattered nine hits effectively to ring up his fourth conquest.

Celuch chalked up his third straight win as the Jonesmen battered Bucky Ashdown off the hill in the third and teed off on "Tee" Komosa. Komosa was touched for five knocks in two frames before giving way to Paulie Astolas, Wiltwycks' "handy-Andy." Astolas managed to subdue the Butter-milk Boys in the last two frames. Crashing out four runs in the opener and cleaning house with five markers in the fifth, the Milkmen rang up number five on the victory register.

Singles by Jimmy Ashdown and Celuch, Miley Berardi's sacrifice fly, Joyce's costly error on Miso's left and Zadany's and Scherer's base blows chased four markers across in the first.

Scherer's double coupled with singles by Miso, Zadany and A. Berardi scored two more in the third before the Icemen's Gang came back. Astolas' life on Celuch's boot, Joyce's looping double and Jim Steigerwald's rap accounted for two tallies in the third.

The Dairymen went to town on Komosa in the fifth, blasting home five counters before Astolas took over. Komosa went sky-high, walking Scherer, Murphy and G. Celuch. Johnny Berardi unloaded the sacks by lashing a triple to deep left center and tallying on Ashdown's infield out. Hits by Andy Celuch and Hopper accounted for the last Dairymen's run.

Astolas' single, Toddy's long triple to the tracks and Joyce's looper over Scherer's glove chalked up two more tallies in the sixth as Jones' coasted through to move up on the Indies.

Bleacher Blarney

Jimmy Ashdown, KHS gardener, and Paul Joyce, veteran twi-cruiter, made their seasonal debut in the Jones' and Wiltwyck's roster. Ashdown collected one hit while Joyce chipped in with two. Zadany "dragged" a perfect hunt for a safety in the third. The Dairymen's mask and mitt artist caught Bucky Ashdown flat-footed.

Speed Scherer, "holler guy de luxe," unthrottled his lungs plenty. Speed's roaring reportedly shattered windows along Smith avenue.

Paulie Astolas, well-known "wolver," rode herd on Zadany particularly and Jones' in general. Boy, what a circus barker Paulie would make!

Glenn was trapped off first by a city block in the second. Lou must have lost his compass but Celuch put an end to his wanderings.

Leskie, Wiltwycks centerfielder, committed highway robbery on Hopper in the fourth. Leskie romped way back to make a sensational falling-over-the-shoulder catch for the game's fielding highlight.

Blasting Action To Be Re-tried

Scheduled for trial Wednesday morning in county court is the negligence action brought by Peter J. Schreiber against The Callanan Road Improvement Co., Inc., an action tried at the last term of court which resulted in a disagreement by the jury. Mr. Schreiber seeks to recover damages which he claims were done to his residence in Connelly through blasting operations at the Mingo Hollow quarry of the Callanan Company. The Schreiber property is located a considerable distance across the hills from the quarry but Mr. Schreiber claims that when the company sets off tons of explosives his walls crack and the foundation of the premises are damaged. He sought approximately $3,000 damages.

At the former trial John W. DeWitt, who appears for plaintiff, produced experts who testified to the damages and the cost of repairs and offered testimony to show that the damage was caused by the blasting. On the other hand experts were sworn by the defense and testified that the heavy charges could not damage property more than a few hundred feet away. One of the experts was Prof. Leet of Harvard, professor of seismology, who testified that computations showed that the Schreiber property could not have been damaged by the blasts and that explosion of a much larger quantity could be safely employed without damage to surrounding property. eH expressed an opinion that property in Kingston across the creek could not be damaged by the blasting operations. Numerous other explosive experts were sworn by A. J. Cook who appeared for the defendant. On the outcome of the present case in court will depend actions by numerous other parties who claim that their premises have been damaged by the explosion of tons of high powered explosives at the quarry.

The action presents a most unusual proposition and brings to light many interesting and intricate problems of law.

Drawn on the present jury list is Mr. Schreiber, plaintiff, in the action. He was summoned as an extra juror.

PLYMOUTH BUILDS GREAT CARS

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Rutt

YESTERDAY: Despite the fact that Packy North is the most beautiful girl in the world, she has a heart of steel. She refuses to believe Tacks' story that he saw her on the street, and felt for her the previous Sunday. Packy happened to be out of town for the weekend.

Chapter Six

Miss Dorothy South

THE terrace of the Penguin Club was deserted of all save Gus, the bartender, when Tacks returned. He entered Gus's domain with heavy tread and downcast eyes. In truth, Mr. Adams was not feeling so well. He was experiencing the same sensation that he had several years previously when, in the Yale-Harvard tussle, a beautiful woman had fallen into his arms behind the crimson goal-line and he had subsequently let it slip through his fingers. That had been a decidedly unpleasant feeling. But it was no worse than the one which afflicted him now. Mr. Tacks Adams had made a sorry mess of it.

Of course, it wouldn't have been important had not Miss Patricia North been so like—well, like Miss Patricia North. Resting his elbows on the bar, Tacks gazed vacantly into space and marveled upon the shifting tides of life. An hour earlier he had set forth upon his mission, whole of heart and fancy-free. He would have been prepared to bet real money that he would return in the same condition. And had he? He had not.

On the way back from Packy's apartment he had had the feeling as if one who walks in clouds. Now, with the sound of the slamming door only just beginning to quit his sensibilities, he was perceiving why. He was in love, that was all, suddenly, desperately in love.

Gus cut in upon these dark musings.

"Have anything, sir?" he inquired professionally.

Tacks regarded him with melancholy eye.

"Listen, Gus," he said, "what's the best drink when you're feeling sunk?"

Gus set himself for weighty speech.

"Well now, I'll tell you, sir," he said. "If you've maybe got a little unsteady of your stomach, there ain't nothing like a nice glass of gin and bitters. He eyed Tacks reprovingly.

"If more of you young gentlemen want to drink gin with a dash of bitters in it, I'll be doing a better job for yourselves. I often says to my missus, I says—"

Tacks interrupted. He cared not what Gus often says to his missus.

"Put a bottle of gin where I can get at it," he ordered.

Gus reached for the bottle and Tacks returned to his self-approving. If only he'd had the common sense to put his foot in the doorway, as Jumbo had done, and provoke Patricia into planting her adorable right fist in his eye!

"That would have been better than nothing."

Something violent assaulted his back, causing his teeth to chatter. He turned his head wearily. Jumbo Cutler and Van Harkness stood there, grinning hatefully.

"Hey, Tacks," said Jumbo, in alarm. "What's the matter? You look sort of green and kicked around."

"I feel sort of green and kicked around. Go away, will you? I want to be alone."

Callousness

"WHAT'S biting you, guy?" said Van.

"Nothing," said Tacks shortly. "Gone to see your girl yet?"

Inquired Jumbo, unwittingly rubbing salt in an open wound.

"No," lied Tacks.

"Hat," said Van, with sudden penetration. "I'll bet that's what's the matter with him. He probably saw her and she gave him the air. Well, cheer up, Tacks, my boy. Anyhow, you didn't stick your eye out like Jumbo did."

Tacks winced. What callousness! What brutality!

"I don't care to discuss my—er—Miss North with you," he said.

"Okay! Let's sit down and have one. By the way, Bill's out making a pass at the East brothers."

"I wish him luck," said Tacks listlessly.

Van ordered drinks.

"I know," he said, "that I agreed it was okay for Bill to bring one of these East fellows to this shindig. But I still think he has the softest—"

The telephone, jangling behind the bar, interrupted him.

"Bar," said Gus, answering it. "Who's that? Just a minute. He beckoned Tacks. "For you, sir."

To the party on the other end of the wire Tacks spoke for several minutes. And the astute observer would have gathered immediately that the person calling was pleading with Tacks for something. Whatever that something was, it seemed to be highly amusing to Mr. Adams. Despite the lenden weightiness of his soul, a grin spread slowly over his face.

The person at the other end of the wire appeared to yammer.

"Now, now," said Tacks soothingly, "don't get excited. Just take it like a man and we'll be around shortly."

He replaced the receiver, rejoined Van and Jumbo.

"Who was that?" Van demanded sharply.

"Bill," said Tacks, still grinning. "Well, what did he want?"

"He wants us," said Tacks, "to come around to the Forty-Sixth Street Police Station and bail him out. I don't know the details, but I charge in assault and battery. It appears that William has poked some guy called Dufferin in the jaw."

Fruitless Fencing

"A PE," said Miss Dorothy South, "if you had one more brain than you've already got, you'd still have just as much trouble."

Mr. Ape Coletti gazed at the lady who held such a trifling opinion of his mental qualifications. Mr. Coletti had a blue, granite-slab jaw; close-cropped head; the neck of a rhinoceros; and ears which could have been sold for tent flaps. No thing of beauty and joy forever, Mr. Coletti. He looked in fact like something which arrives in the wee small hours after a bout with lobster a la Newburg and pistachio ice-cream. But it not exactly handsome, Mr. Coletti gave an impression of extreme capability. He was short and squat, with too-long arms and powerful shoulders, built generally along the same lines as a large designed for heavy work around the back streets of Venice. He possessed a pair of small beady eyes, light-blue in color, in which leapt not the light of human intelligence. These eyes now wandered over the little figure of Miss Dorothy South as he rummaged what he was pleased to call his mind for some suitable rejoinder to her terse statement regarding the contents of his cranium. He succeeded finally in bringing forth a nifty.

"Yeah?" he said.

"Yeah," confirmed Miss South. "Imagine you having the crust to bawl me out—ME! Why, you big baboon, but for me you'd have been overlooking the Golden Gate from a third-story window in Alcatraz long ago."

Ape Coletti cast about him, found a convenient table and pounded it with hairy fist.

"Lissen," he said, "dat ain't got nuttin' to do with it. Wot I'm tellin' you is: Dey ain't no dame can give me de run-around."

"Well, darling," said Miss South, in dulcet tones, "who's giving you the run-around?"

Mr. Coletti arose and pointed a short accusing finger at Miss South. So might Napoleon have comported himself when he got the goods on the Empress Josephine. So might great Caesar have charged Cleopatra with being a two-timer. But if these ladies quailed before that awful digit, they were not of the same caliber as Miss South.

Miss South merely smoothed her platinum hair with slim left hand and laughed in Mr. Coletti's face.

"Ape," she said, "many's the dumb-bell that's come hot off the lower East Side. But you win the buck-toothed shaving-brush."

"Is dat a wisecrack?" inquired Mr. Coletti, with a frown.

Miss South ignored this.

"Listen Ape," she said, "do you know who that guy is?"

"It don't make no never mind," Mr. Coletti said. "Next time I catch him parkin' around 'dis joint, I'm gonna kiss him so hard wid a pair of brass knucks dat he'll come to all covered with daisy roots."

"Is that so?" said Miss South.

"I says dat's so."

Miss South appeared to consider it time to drop this fruitless fencing.

"Sit down, Ape," she said. "To begin with, the gentleman that's got you all hot and bothered is none other than Mr. Van Rypper."

Mr. Coletti looked as if he would like to spit.

"Van Rypper?" he exclaimed disgustedly. "Wot a sissy moniker!"

"Is it?" Miss South inquired sweetly, "any worse than Harold?"

Mr. Coletti winced. Among the other millions which had been hung around his rhino neck at birth was the wholly unsuitable name of Harold. Under "Harold" the pride of the Colettis had been forced to chafe until, having won his spurs in gangland, the more picturesque and acceptable cognomen of "Ape" had been bestowed upon him. But though the horror of Harold was fast becoming a vanishing memory, memory still carried its sting.

"Nobody," the Ape stated now, "can call me Harold an' get away wid it."

Miss South waved a hand.

"I'm not interested in your foolish name," she said. "I'm asking you if you know who Van Rypper Harkness is?"

"An' I'm tellin' you," replied the Ape, "dat I ain't never hoid of him."

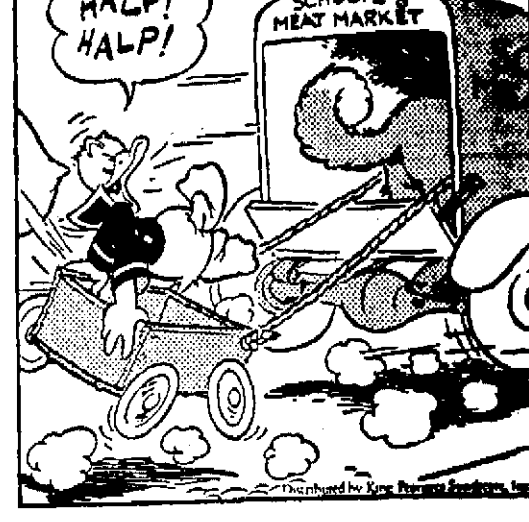

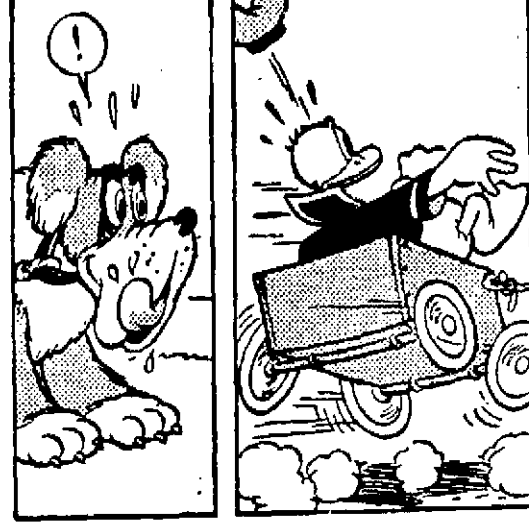

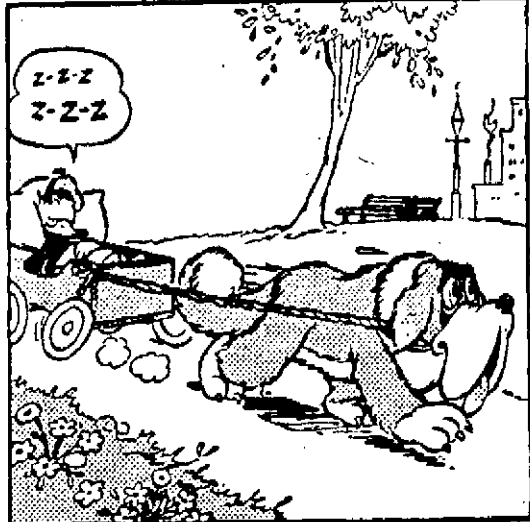

"Which shows," said Miss South promptly, "that if you'd did a little more reading of the Social Register and a little less of Daily Racing Form, you'd know Van Rypper Harkness comes from one of the oldest and richest families in New York."

The story is told about an old friend who chanced to meet Woodrow Wilson in England. He had not seen Mr. Wilson for many years. "You look very much like a minister," said the friend. "Have you ever been taken for one?"

"No," replied Mr. Wilson, "but I've been treated like one."

"That's interesting," "Yes, I had a job once where I waited six months for my salary."

We are worried because so many of our former worries have been taken over by the government.

For several minutes the young man did not speak. His heart was too full. It was enough for him to know that this glorious creature loved him, that she had promised to be his wife.

With a new and delightful sense of ownership, he feasted his eyes upon her beauty, and realized that henceforth it would be his privilege to provide for her welfare and happiness.

His good fortune seemed incredible. Finally, he whispered tenderly:

"How did it happen, darling, that such a bright shining angel as yourself fell in love with a dull, stupid fellow like me?"

She (absently) — Goodness knows, must have been a screw loose somewhere.

Little things make big differences. For that reason, among others, it is well to watch little things.

Exasperated wife (to her wayward husband)—The night before last, you came home yesterday. Last night you came home today. If you come home this evening tomorrow morning, I'll go straight home to mother.

The biggest operation on record must have been Lansing, Michigan. Health Digest.

Agent—Why do you want fire insurance on your husband? That won't be any help when your husband passes away.

Young Bride—It's so much cheaper than life insurance and you see I intend to have him cremated.

The secret of success is making hay with the grass that grows under other peoples' feet.

Unemployment Census Taker—Really, Miss, it's essential that your correct age be entered on the card.

Spinster Duff—Well, er, 43, but please write it as illegally as possible.

Most work is interesting enough if we devote our complete interest to its accomplishment.

Soon will come the vacation season and it may be your job to teach some fair one how to swim. It seems to make a difference in this case who the candidate is:

Girl Scouts Go To Camp in July

Camp Wendy, the Girl Scout camp on the Borden Estate near Walkill will open July 2 and will be the scene of busy activity until August 27.

Camping is one of the big activities in the Girl Scout program and the life of a Girl Scout is not complete unless it has included all phases.

Girl Scout camps offer a program of activities carefully adapted to the skills of three age groups in Girl Scouting, the seven to 10-year-old Brownies, the 10 to 14-year-old Scouts and the 14 to 18-year-old seniors. Swimming, hiking, Gypsy trips, arts and crafts, choral speech dramatics and music are some of the activities.

At a Girl Scout camp the code of scouting, tolerance, helpfulness, honesty and self-discipline colors all activities. In the constant give and take of the small group the girl learns her right to a voice in the day's events and the right of every other individual to the same privilege. This system also provides opportunities for growth and social living. It insures quick friendships and the greater possibility of satisfying the interests of each girl.

All this the Girl Scout camp provides at a moderate cost well within the means of those whose purse strings are short. Camp Wendy rates for Ulster county

Supervisors Pass Road Resolution

lop's Corners $2,250, new construction.

Saugerties, Blue Mountain-Quarryville road $16,000, new construction.

Shandaken, Olivera-Slide Mountain $8,000, old construction.

Valley $4,000, new construction.

Shawangunk, Dwaarkill-Crawford-Four Corners $15,000, new construction.

Uster, Uster Landing road $5,000, old construction. Legg's Mills-Mt. Marion bridge $9,000, reconstruction.

Wawarsing, Briggs Street-Uster Heights $7,000, old construction. Cragsmoor Road $5,000, old construction.

Woodstock, Woodstock-Glenford road $13,000, old construction.

On motion of Supervisors Anderson, Rifenburg, Phinney and Cashdollar, the sum of $4,000 returned tax money was transferred to the town road fund under provision of section 195.

Roads Main Topic

The bulk of the business transacted at the session, which was attended by 31 supervisors, pertained to roads and there were several roads added to the county map for construction. Among them was the Mt. Tremper-Woodland valley bridge road, 1.5 miles in length, which was added on motion of Supervisor Smith; Blue Mountain school-Quarryville road in Saugerties, added by motion of Supervisor E. Snyder. It is 1.9 miles in length. Supervisor Anderson moved the road from the state road at Accord bridge to Allgerville, 4.1 miles in length, be added in Rochester. Supervisor Smith of Shandaken moved that Shultis' bridge at Chichester be reconstructed at a cost of approximately $6,000.

Supervisor Grimm of New Paltz moved that plans for the Main street bridge over the Wallkill river, which has been condemned, be prepared by the county superintendent. Carried.

On motion of Supervisors Kniffin and Anderson, the Mettaca-honts town road, 4.9 miles, was authorized. The county will contribute 80 per cent of the estimated cost of this year's work and the town will pay 20 per cent. The resolution called for making available the $4,000 share of the county which will be paid out when the town raises its $1,000. The construction of Birdsall street leading past the new central school at Marlborough, a road 4 of a mile in length, was also moved and the county was authorized to make available $4,000 on condition the town make available $1,000 for the construction as a town road. The two roads will be of macadam, 16 feet wide.

Electrical Committee

Chairman Snyder appointed Messrs. Haynes, Cashdollar, Sutton and Wadlin a committee as requested by the Electrical League of the county. The league asked that a committee be appointed to take up the question of providing examination, licensing and regulating of master and special electricians and for inspection of electrical work. The petition was signed by a large number of contractors of the county. Details of the matter were not stated when the communication was received from the league and read.

A petition from town of Kingston residents relative to construction of road 103 from St. Ann's Church across Hallihan's Hill was received, read and filed.

A communication was received asking that $2,000 be made available for the Old Age Bural Fund. On motion of Supervisor Haynes such transfer of funds was made.

The annual report of the Board of Elections was received and filed.

The county treasurer reported he had received the dog license fees. This money has already been allocated.

Clerk Stang asked that all supervisors contact assessors and ask that the addresses of all property owners be supplied.

Damage Action Settled

On motion of Supervisor Wadlin and on recommendation of County Attorney Elsworth a $15,000 damage action brought against the county for injuries suffered in 1937 by Martin Burrows, a lad injured through a hole in the Kerhonkson bridge, was settled when the board authorized the lad be paid $300 and his father, Benjamin Burrows, the sum of $450. An action has been commenced in court. Payment will be made when a release is signed.

On motion of Supervisors Phinney, Dean and Lenihan, back taxes from 1932 to 1936, inclusive, on the Y. M. C. A. property at Glenerie in the town of Uster were cancelled. The taxes remain unpaid and on affidavit of the assessor of the town of Uster it was stated that the property should have been tax exempt because of its use as an institution.

Supervisor Wadlin moved that all penalties on unpaid taxes for the year 1938 and collectable in 1939 be waived if the taxes are paid by October first. This is exclusive of the usual 5 per cent fee. Adopted.

Supervisor Grimm of New Paltz called attention of the board to the fact that June 26 was Uster County-Kingston Day at the New York World's Fair and he moved that the board go on record as endorsing the day and urged that all residents possible attend on that day.

McDowell Explains Vote

The only resolution which caused any discussion was one offered by Supervisor Wadlin, who moved that in accordance with a request from the county service officer, that office equipment be purchased. The county welfare officer job was created last annual session when the board made an appropriation of $1,000. No officer was named for about four months and there is a balance of about $333 in the fund. Mr. Wadlin moved that this fund be turned back to the county auditor's fund and so much as necessary be used to purchase equipment requested by the officer. It was carried but Supervisor McDowell of Wawarsing, in voting in the affirmative, explained his vote.

Mr. McDowell stated that while he would vote for the resolution he believed the board was "made to appear assinine by the appropriation" made. He said while the county appropriated $1,500 for fox bounties it had made an appropriation of but $1,000 for the salary of a service officer who was called on to do work for veterans and their families who need attention. This was but about $4 a day and the officer had to supply his own car. A man being paid such a small salary could not be expected to do a good job. But since it was a step in the right direction he said he would vote for the motion but he felt there had been a mistake in not making an appropriation in the amount asked for the work.

Matthew Williams of Hurley was named to the Farm and Home Bureau Board as requested in a communication from the association. This is required by the law. Various bills presented were paid and the board adjourned out of respect to the memory of Edward M. Stanbrough, a former member of the board. Mr. Wadlin called attention to the recent death of this former supervisor from the 12th ward who had served the city and county so faithfully and he moved that when the board adjourned it do so out of respect to his memory.

Firemen's School Started in City

Hippocampus Is Queer

Personality of the Seas

Perhaps in no other animal have been packed so many anomalies as in Hippocampus, popularly known as the seahorse, a systematic study of which recently has been completed by the United States bureau of fisheries. This queer personality has the head of a Lilliputian horse, a prehensile tail, plate-like scales like those of the sturgeon and a pouch like the kangaroo's. The creature also reverses the ordinary way of nature in that "child bearing" is exclusively a function of the male, says Nature Magazine.

The seahorse is almost world-wide in its distribution in warm ocean waters where there are growths of sea vegetation. Although they have provided the models for some of the nightmare monsters of the human imagination, they are small, feeble and almost defenseless. The head is unquestionably similar to that of a miniature horse in general outline. The neck, however, is no neck at all. What looks like a neck is the forward part of its body. Its shell-like covering left early naturalists in doubt as to whether it was not some monstrous sort of a water bug, but it is a true fish. Its weight and its single fin leave it an inefficient swimmer, and it is able to swim at all only because of a large air bladder so delicately adjusted to its specific gravity that if a bubble the size of a pinhead is let out by a puncture the seahorse sinks to the bottom. There it moves clumsily about until the wound has healed.

The greatest anomaly of the species is its way of reproducing. The male actually "gives birth" to the living young. Unfertilized eggs are laid by the female, who places them a few at a time into a pouch-like organ on the under side of the male's body. In some manner unknown to biologists they are fertilized in the transfer. The eggs are incubated in this pouch and remain for some days after they are hatched. Then the living young, fully equipped to take care of themselves, are expelled.

New 'Back Drop' Aids in Television Transmitting

A black "back drop" for the screens of television transmitting tubes results in more sharply focused and detailed television image according to a patent (No. 2,158,391) issued to Willard Hickok of Bloomfield, N. J.

The "back drop" is a film of graphite at the back of the transparent mica support on which are mounted the photo-electric elements that convert the scene being televised into an electric image which is broadcast through the ether.

It is explained that when the scene is focused on the ordinary photo-electric screen of the "television" tube, light from the image is reflected, bounces off the walls of the tube back on to the screen so that a double image may be formed. At the same time the photo-electric elements scatter the light. All this, it is indicated, blurs and makes hazy the image to be broadcast.

The black "back drop," which is the subject of the patent, on the other hand, absorbs the light which would thus ordinarily be reflected. The result is a sharper, more detailed image.

The only pupils of the school at Alba, Calif., are the teacher's four children.

Playhouse Opens June 22; Royton In Leading Role

With the expectations of an outstanding year in the history of the summer theatre, Robert Elwyn, director of the Woodstock Playhouse, announces that the Broadway comedy, "Susan & God," which enjoyed a long run in New York city, will open at the Woodstock Playhouse June 22.

Miss Velma Royton, a favorite with local theatre lovers for some years past, will have the leading role in "Susan & God," played in the Broadway success by Gertrude Lawrence.

A cast featuring several characters new to the patrons of the Woodstock theatre will supply the supporting roles to Miss Royton. Among these are Miss Edith Gresham, who appeared in the Broadway hit, "The Women;" Richard Bowler, of international fame; Paul Hammond; and the attractive movie star, Margaret Randall. Some of the players who appeared in former productions in Woodstock will again be in the Elwyn company, including another favorite, Donald McHenry.

The Elwyn company arrived at Woodstock on Sunday, June 11, and will reside at "Brooklands," the regular home of the players. Rehearsals for "Susan & God" started yesterday.

Following the opening day on June 22, a group of apprentices to the playhouse will arrive in Woodstock to attend a completely equipped theatrical school. Several of the courses offered by this school will be under the personal direction of prominent members of the Elwyn company.

POET—F.D.R.'s choice of Archibald MacLeish (above), Pulitzer prize poet, as librarian of congress is assailed by Milton Ferguson, American Library association head, who predicts the opposition of nation's 14,000 trained librarians. Opposition also has developed in congress.

5TH TERM—He's against it, said Maury Maverick, fiery mayor of San Antonio, dodging reporters' questions about a third term. Said he: "I'm against 4th, 5th terms."

MISSED A MILE—Well, maybe Catcher Harry Danning of the N. Y. Giants didn't miss the ball by that big a margin, but there it is, dropping past Danning and Clyde Passeau (left), Cubs pitcher. Passeau hit a foul tip, trying to bunt, and the ball went by faster than a Joe Louis punch. This was in the seventh (lucky for Cubs) inning. The Cubs won, 7 to 1.

BOVINE BEAUTY—Dairymen may have eyes only for flower-decked "Prince's Fran Vogel," a demure Brown Swiss chosen the "world's most beautiful cow" at a Chicago meeting of the Agricultural club. But some observers would find Janet Moore a little more to their taste in the matter of beauty. "Prince's Fran Vogel," from the Savage Marydale Farms of Lafox, Ill., wore her floral horseshoe, emblematic of the title, with all the aplomb of a Kentucky Derby winner.

GLITTER AMONG 'JITTERBUGS'—The role of 3,000,000 "jitterbug" members of National Swing Club of America is represented in trophy given the Andrews sisters, Maxene (left), Patti and LaVerne (right), by Ned Harris. The N.S.C.A. voted sisters most popular vocal trio.

IT TOOK CRIT—Crippled since birth, 18-year-old James Boyle of Brookville, Pa., got his high school diploma recently, though he'd never attended school. He took home lessons from his mother, a former teacher, and was examined by school officials. This tiny car, which he built from spare parts, gets him around his father's farm. He's interested in advertising.

CALLING ON 'DAVY JONES'—To the bottom of the ocean off Portsmouth, N. H., goes Diver Harry Ross of New London, Conn. He's being lowered from the rescue ship Falcon to the sunken submarine Squalus, in which 26 bodies are entombed. Naval officers now seek to lift the sub which sank May 24, resulting in the dramatic escape of 33 persons by means of a diving bell.

YEARS DEAL KINDLY WITH THE NATION'S LEADING JUSTICE, CHIEF JUSTICE HUGHES

AGE MAY RULE—Back in 1906, the present chief justice of the U. S. supreme court, Charles Evans Hughes, was an arm-waving, silk-hatted orator campaigning for the governorship of New York. He won, and served state for almost two full terms, resigning to become an associate justice of court Oct. 10, 1910. Mr. Hughes is 77; he was born April 11, 1862.

OATH—This is Charles Evans Hughes in February, 1930, when he became chief justice. He'd resigned as associate justice in June, 1916, to campaign for the presidency.

SEA FOOD—With relish, Chief Justice Hughes ate the oysters at a Brown university alumni dinner in March, 1937. He has A.B., A.M. and LL.D. degrees from Brown.

A LEGAL HUDDLE—When crowds broke up after F.D.R.'s 1933 inauguration, several of the nation's leading jurists were grouped in one spot. Easily recognized is Chief Justice Hughes; directly behind him, to the left, is Associate Justice Willis Van Devanter, since retired. At extreme left is Associate Justice James McReynolds, 77-year-old court veteran.

QUIET—Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, wife of the chief justice, is a gentle, retiring person anxious to let the news spotlight focus itself upon her elderly jurist-husband.

RARE—Good humor radiated from the usually-austere Chief Justice Hughes on above occasion. Recently an ailment diagnosed as duodenal ulcers kept him from bench.

History Society To Honor Clinton

Willis G. Nash, a vice president of the Ulster County Historical Society, was elected vice chairman of the committee which is arranging for the celebration in Newburgh on July 26, of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Clinton, first governor of New York state, whose body rests in the churchyard of the old Dutch Church in Kingston. Judge Hasbrouck, president of the society, was named as a member of the executive committee for the celebration.

The action was taken at a meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in Newburgh Monday night, attended by representatives of Orange, Ulster and Dutchess county societies. The Ulster county society was represented by a committee named by President Hasbrouck, consisting of Willis G. Nash, Mrs. Charlotte W. Tappen and Ben M. Taylor. Joseph E. Hasbrouck, of Modena, a member of the society, also was present, but came as a representative of the New Paltz society. He was made a member of the executive committee, as were William J. Coulter, of Middletown, Mayor Wendell Phillips, of Port Jervis and George W. Whitaker, of the Newburgh Chamber of Commerce. Later a motion provided that a representative from each of the patriotic societies in the area be added to the board.

It developed at the meeting, which was attended by about 25 people, that the Newburgh Society already had made considerable progress in plans for the celebration. Mrs. F. H. B. Barry, past regent of the D. A. R. and president of the Patriotic Societies, presided at the meeting and at her suggestion LeGrand Pellett of the Newburgh Historical Society was elected general chairman and Senator Thomas C. Desmond, honorarium chairman of the general committee. Miss Mildred Deyo of Newburgh was elected secretary and R. H. B. Barry, treasurer.

William Jenkins, secretary to Senator Desmond, told of the prizes which had been offered by the senator for the best papers to be written by teachers in the schools of the state on the public service given by George Clinton as first governor of the state. There are four prizes—$100, $75, $50 and $25—and papers are to be limited to 2,000 words and must be in the committee's hands by July 1.

On motion it was decided that the writer of the winning paper should be the main speaker at the anniversary celebration and at the suggestion of the Rev. Elwood Corning it was voted to invite Congressman Hamilton Fish of the 26th District to be one of the speakers.

Further details of the program were left with the executive committee. It seemed to be understood that the anniversary exercises would be held in Newburgh although there was no definite decision as to just where they would take place.

Farewell Dinner For Rev. C. Brown

REV. CLARENCE E. BROWN

Final arrangements are being made to accommodate the large number of friends and guests who will attend the testimonial farewell dinner for the Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Brown, which will be held Thursday evening at 6:15 o'clock at the church, parlors of the Wurts Street Baptist Church.

Invitations have been limited but there are still a few remaining which may be secured from any member of the Men's Club.

Frederic Snyder, lecturer, will be the speaker of the evening. Attorney Roger Loughran will act as toastmaster.

A well planned program has been arranged and a delightful evening is promised those attending.

18 Students Suspended
Baltimore, June 13 (AP)—School authorities suspended 18 high school students today in an investigation of an alleged attack by 40 boys on a Jewish youth.

He accused them of having carved the letter "H" on his neck after they inked swastikas on their own arms. City Councilman Leon Abramson said he would try to find out why school authorities did not report the matter to police on Friday when it occurred.

Some expressed the opinion that the Washington's Headquarters grounds would be the most desirable selection.

Among those present Monday night was Dr. J. Wilson Poucher, secretary of the Dutchess county society. Asked as to Governor Clinton's residence in Dutchess county, he said that from 1777 to 1783 he lived in Poughkeepsie and that following his official activities he built a house in Dutchess county and lived there, but so far as he had been able to learn, none of the houses in that county which he had occupied was standing today.

State Predicts Hay Crop Will Be Short

Albany, N. Y., June 13 (AP)—Agriculturists predicted today a shortage of hay in New York state as a result of the prolonged dry spell and forecast severe damage to other crops unless rain soon relieves drought conditions.

"Hay and pastures definitely are hurt," said R. L. Gillett, chief statistician of the State Agriculture Department. "Other crops are backward, their growth has been retarded. If the dry weather continues, we face a disastrous situation."

Niagara County Farm Bureau Agent D. M. Dalrymple reported the dry spell, in addition to cutting the hay crop, has damaged cabbage, pea and oat crops as well as some fruits, while Leslie R. Stutzman, state agriculture market reporter at Rochester, said strawberries also have been damaged in that area.

Howard H. Campbell, Nassau county Farm Bureau manager, said early potatoes, sweet corn and cabbage on Long Island necked and rain badly and that farmers there were "thoroughly alarmed."

Wells in some farming areas have begun to dry up, farm agents reported. Some villages and towns in the state have cautioned residents to use water sparingly due to threatened shortages.

Landon Predicts FDR Not in Field

stop them. Here indeed the republic has a rendezvous with destiny. However, I don't believe any man with the exaltation and the sense of public service and patriotism that comes from the high office of the presidency will accede to such demands.

"The President, worthy of the trust reposed in him by his fellow citizens, will disdain this suggestion made to him by meaner souls."

Landon said the question of which party wins the next election is not as important as the type of statesmanship we may expect from the next President.

"The fantastic financial theories of the New Deal which have proven a failure in achieving recovery must not be permitted to remain unchecked, or to become a permanent part of our national life. We must get a foundation for a sound recovery and getting our people back to work."

"Then the policy of the next Republican President may well be preventing normal healthy recovery from turning into run-away boom. At the risk of his very reputation he must be prepared to put on the brakes in time, and if he fails we will be facing the truly desperate situation of another bust. And if that happens, God pity us all."

Lawlor to Stand Trial in London

serious injury to property contrary to the firearms act of 1937."

The prosecutor told the magistrate today that 21 rounds of ammunition for the seized one-foot-long sawed off rifle were found in Lawlor's possession, together with 10 airgun pellets. One thousand more pellets were found at Lawlor's lodgings, the prosecutor declared.

A bullet hole was found in a window of the residence of the princess royal and her husband, the Earl of Harwood, on the same day the shooting took place in Belgrave Square. Apparently it was made on the night of June 4.

Notations on Permit
Morgan said it had now developed that the gun permit which he said Lawlor flourished as an excuse for his action in Belgrave Square had on the back of it notations of the Belgrave Square address of the Kents and the Green street address of the princess royal.

The prosecutor quoted Lawlor as explaining that his gun had jammed a few days before and he was "trying to undo it when it went off."

Corning Bill Approved

Albany, June 13 (Special)—Approval of Governor Herbert H. Lehman has been given to a bill continuing the existence of the Hudson River Valley Scenic and Survey Commission to March 1, 1940. The bill, sponsored by Senator Erastus Corning, 2nd, of Albany, carries an appropriation of $1,000. Senator Corning is chairman of the commission.

companion, Lady Portlinton, had just entered the duchess' automobile, en route to a movie, when the shot was fired. The car was not hit.

The weapon, Morgan told the court, was a .22-caliber gun of German manufacture.

"The stock and barrel have been sawed off with the result that accurate shooting is quite impossible," he said.

Lawlor refused to sign a statement, the prosecutor said, but remarked, "I wanted to see the duke (of Kent)."

Authorities Seek Alleged Swindler

Ulster county authorities are searching for a mysterious "Thomas Gallo" accused of perpetrating a $2,800 swindle on Samuel Fiscella, Vineyard avenue, Highland, farmer, on April 5.

"Gallo" gave his address as Brooklyn, and according to the authorities obtained the money on the promise to develop Fiscella's holdings and net him some $60,000 profit.

The $2,800 that "Gallo" obtained, according to the authorities, was to be used to pay off a $5,000 mortgage on some of "Gallo's other holdings" thus clearing the way for their liquidation to make available the other money necessary to develop the Fiscella holdings.

"After he got the $2,800, it was the same old story," say the authorities, "he hasn't been seen since."

"Gallo" according to information stayed for three weeks in Highland and while there made friends of many persons in the village. He is described as a persuasive individual who painted a glowing picture of the plans he had in store for the development of Fiscella's place.

He is described as being a short, stout man with a red face and several gold crowns in his mouth. He also wore a diamond horseshoe pin most of the time.

The investigation being carried on by the E. C. I. men has disclosed, it is stated, numerous activities by "Gallo" since his stay here.

In one case a woman who owns a fruit farm near Highland is said to have been offered $47,000 for her property. Finally, it was disclosed, the would-be buyer had discovered gold on the farm. The woman in question consulted with George Hudson of Highland. The latter assured her that $47,000 certainly was a good price for her property and advised her to take the money—in cash—and let Mr. "Gallo" have any gold he could find on the farm.

The stranger, whose address was given only as Brooklyn, is said to have found it comparatively easy to arouse the interest of numerous people in his plans. Among schemes he proposed was one to purchase the Tamney House and in another instance he is reported to have sat in conference with certain bank officials in an attempt to secure certain property in which they were interested.

Trooper Metzger said this morning that a man answering the description of Mr. "Gallo" was alleged to have been engaged in activities of a questionable nature in Brooklyn and on Long Island and that an investigation of that territory was being made.

"Rosie" from Harlem will also be present to amuse the audience with her laugh provoking mystery act.

Byron Nelson Is National Open Golf Champion

Mile King Arrives

Philadelphia, June 13 (AP).—When the final history of golf is written by the great official scorer, there should be somewhere near the front a special section devoted to Craig Wood, the man who came closer to winning more big championships than any other player who ever lived. And who continued to smile as he went to the next tee.

Craig completed his reverse "grand slam" yesterday when he lost by three strokes to young Byron Nelson in the second 18-hole playoff for the national open title at the Spring Mill course. For 72 holes of the tournament proper and through Sunday's sun-scorched round, the 37-year-old "never won" battled the next champion stroke for stroke. Finally, as Nelson pounded out a 70 yesterday, Wood went down fighting to the last ditch and bunker.

Lost 4 Big Ones

Wood now has lost playoffs for the four greatest titles in reach of a professional. Denny Shute outlasted him in the British open. Paul Runyan beat him in a 36-hole final for the P. G. A. crown. Gene Sarazen shot his famous "double eagle" to tie Wood in the Augusta masters and then trim him in the playoff. Yesterday Craig must have drained the last, bitter drops, but he entered the locker room with a quip on his lips.

Nelson, of the youthful "royal family" of American golf, was explaining exultantly from an adjoining bench that he thought he had won the playoff on the 14th hole, where he sank a 10-footer to go three up.

"Nope, it wasn't there," said Wood. "It was these holes in one he shot into me right at the start."

He was right. Nelson practically stiffened his man before the battle was well under way. A brilliant birdie three on the third hole and then a sensational eagle two on the 453-yard fourth—a one-two punch that Joe Louis would have envied—put him four strokes ahead of Wood and virtually erased any doubt of the outcome.

Promised Land Defeats Roselands

Sunday morning at the Athletic Field the Promised Land Sluggers defeated the Roseland nine in a fast and enthusiastic game of baseball.

In spite of the fact that Phil Carrado, shortstop for the winners, had an off day, being credited with five errors, the milk and honey boys came through with a score of 9-5.

NELSON WINS OPEN GOLF PLAY-OFF

Victor in the second play-off necessary to determine the U. S. open golf champion, Byron Nelson, (right) Reading, Pa., professional, shakes hands with Craig Wood of Mamaroneck, N. Y., his dogged opponent. Following a triple tie with Denny Shute at the conclusion of 72 holes Saturday, Wood and Nelson tied again Sunday with 69's, necessitating another 18 holes on which Nelson scored 70, Wood 73.

MAKE WAY FOR THE NEW CHAMPION

With his wife hanging onto his arm, Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., leaves the 18th green of the Philadelphia Country Club's Spring Mill course, following his victory over Craig Wood in the second play-off necessary to decide the open golf championship. Guards clear the way through the large gallery which followed the match.

BASEBALL MARCHES INTO ITS 2ND CENTURY

This was the colorful scene at Cooperstown, N. Y., as crowds and famous baseball players gathered to celebrate the 100th anniversary of baseball. Here's a team costumed a la 19th century—moustaches, beards and all—parading out on Doubleday Field. The field is at the spot where Abner Doubleday's pitchers first trotted into action a century ago to play the game he had just invented.

Babe Ruth Is No. 1 Hero At Baseball Centennial

By Robert C. McCormick

Cooperstown, N. Y., June 13 (AP).—Baseball's number one hero still can steal any big league show he sets his mind to, even from under the noses of the game's only other living immortals.

From the moment he stepped from the train and spread his infectious grin over the crowd, Babe Ruth really took over yesterday's celebration of the 100th anniversary of the national game. Without him it would have lost some of its glamour.

Ruth was in the center of the largest crowd, writing his name on baseballs, score cards, envelopes and everything autograph hunters could find. When Ty Cobb arrived for the ceremonies, a bit later, he walked unrecognized. A block away, Ruth came out of a hotel and the fans went mad.

It was the same when they called ten of the eleven living members of the game's hall of fame out to answer roll call at the dedication of the baseball museum. There was applause for Connie Mack, Hans Wagner, Eddie Collins, Tris Speaker, Walter Johnson, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Cy Young, George Sisler and Napoleon Lajoie. Then Ruth stepped out and brought down the house.

Later, most of the immortals donned their old-time uniforms and formed a board of strategy for two teams of modern stars chosen by Eddie Collins and Hans Wagner.

When things lulled temporarily, the team on his grin, picked up a bat and waddled out of the dugout to hit for bespectacled Duffy MacFayden. He let the first go by and swung at the next, but the old zip wasn't there. He hit a high foul over the stands on his next try and then belted a high one out to Catcher Arndt.

Jorgens directly in front of the plate. It was worth the trip alone to hear the crowd beg Jorgens to drop it. After that, the Wagners won, 4-2.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

It seems at the moment the most important word in baseball is "spirit."

The sentimental gentlemen who paid tribute to the spirit of baseball yesterday at Cooperstown, N. Y., were, in a sense, fitting nicely into the picture that has made the three New York teams—the Yankees, Giants and Dodgers—just about the hottest things in baseball.

Though much of the Cooperstown celebration was abstract, there isn't anything abstract about the fire and dash—or spirit, if you prefer—that marks the rise of those three ball clubs.

The Brooklyn Dodgers are the National League's pet rage. They swing west for an 18-day, 14-game stand way up in the first division with a record of 13 victories in their last 18 games, and 20 victories out of 30 starts at home.

Though their offense and defense seem sound, critics are busy writing stirring pieces about how the spirit of the Dodgers makes them a greater team than any Brooklyn outfit since 1932, the last year they finished up in the front rows.

Crucial Series

They're only a game and a half behind the St. Louis Cardinals, with whom they have a "crucial" series starting Wednesday—and there are some who think the Red Birds will be trying to catch onto the Dodgers' coat-tails when the series is over. A successful trip through the west and there'll be no living with those Flatbush fans, who take their baseball as seriously as a co-ed does her first date.

And the Giants, who have been booed almost off the season this year, have been praised, are set out on their second invasion of the west. Five straight, their longest current victory streak, may be stretched into two figures before they head back for the Polo Grounds, because it is admitted that the Giant machine, possibly for the first time this year, is clocking as Bill Terry promised it would. Bill says the boys finally have got "the right spirit."

One Dark Cloud

The finger injury to Burgess Whitehead is the only dark cloud

on the Giant horizon. Whitehead's place at second base will be taken by Alex Kampouris, who should do nicely, especially if he keeps on hitting those game-winning homers.

The Yankees' whose three inter-sectional series with the Tigers, Indians, Browns and White Sox have produced 24 victories out of 29 games, will open a home stand that bears every promise. DiMaggio, for one thing, is back in their swinging from the heels and that's always good news for the Yanks.

Most interesting item chronicled during the off-season came from Will McKechnie, boss of the league leading Cincinnati Reds, who weren't treated with the proper respect by the Giants or the Dodgers.

Will said he thought the Giants were better than a fifth place club and that the Dodgers were destined to improve their position. To the credit of the league he seemed positive that "there won't be a pennant won in this league for a long time."

And lest the eastern fans get too excited over the Giants and the Dodgers, Will said, "we should get better."

Japan Wants U. S. Athletes

Tokyo, June 13 (AP).—To promote friendly relations with the United States, the Japan board of tourist industry is drafting a plan to bring 20 outstanding American athletes to Tokyo this summer.

Exactly what kind of athletes has not yet been decided, but officials said the majority probably would be trackmen and swimmers. The Amateur Athletic Federation has been asked to cooperate with the A. A. U., in the United States in selecting the best of this year's crop.

Baltimore—Harry Jeffra, 123½, Baltimore, former bantamweight champion, outpointed Al Mancini, 126, Providence (8).

New York—Irish Johnny Mack, 138, New Britain, Conn., knocked out Nicky Farber, 136, New York (5).

WHOLE HAND OR NONE

Dairymen Assault 3 Hurlers; Celuch Whiffs 12 Icemen

Joneses Score Five Runs in 5th; Wiltwycks on Again

Tonight Against Boiceville

Unleashing a 14-hit barrage on a trio of hurlers, Jones Dairy mauled the Wiltwycks for a decisive 11-4 triumph in last night's City League clash. Assaulting Bucky Ashdown, Komosa and Astolas, the Dairymen enjoyed a field day with the willow as they moved up on the idle, league-leading Independents. George Celuch, youthful "meal-ticker," smoked his slants past 12 Wiltwyck whiffers and scattered nine hits effectively to ring up his fourth conquest. Celuch chalked up his third straight win as the Jonesmen battered Bucky Ashdown off the hill in the third and teed off on "Tenny" Komosa. Komosa was touched for five knockings in two frames before giving way to Paulie Astolas, Wiltwycks' "handy-Andy." Astolas managed to subside the Butter-milk Boys in the last two frames, crashing out four runs in the opener and cleaning house with five markers in the fifth, the Milkmen rang up number five on the victory register.

Singles by Jimmy Ashdown and Celuch, Milly Berardi's sacrifice fly, Joyce's costly error on Misove's loft and Zadany's and Scherer's base blows chased four markers across in the first.

Scherer's double, coupled with singles by Misove, Zadany and A. Berardi scored two more in the third before the Icehouse Gang came back. Astolas' life on Celuch's boot, Joyce's looping double and Jim Steigewald's rap accounted for two tallies in the third.

Jones Score Five

The Dairymen went to town on Komosa in the fifth, blasting home five counters before Astolas took over. Komosa went "sky-high," striking Scherer, Murphy and G. Celuch. John Berardi unloaded the sacks by lashing a triple to deep left center and tallying on Ashdown's infield out. Hits by Andy Celuch and Hopper accounted for the last Dairymen's run.

Astolas' single, Toddy's long triple to the tracks and Joyce's looper over Scherer's glove chalked up two more tallies in the sixth as Jones' coasted through to move up on the Index.

Bleacher Barley

Jimmy Ashdown, KHS gardener, and Paul Joyce, veteran twirler, made their seasonal debut in the Jones' and Wiltwycks' roster. Ashdown collected one hit while Joyce chipped in with two. Zadany "dragged" a perfect hunt for a safety in the third. The Dairymen's mask and mitt artist caught Bucky Ashdown flat-footed.

Speed Scherer, "holer guy de luxe," unthrottled his lungs plenty. Speed's roaring reportedly shattered windows along Smith avenue.

Paulie, Astolas, well-known "wolfie," rode herd on Zadany particularly and Jones' in general. Boy, what a circus barker Paulie would make!

Glenn was trapped off first by a city block in the second. Lou must have lost his compass but Celuch put an end to his wanderings.

Leskie, Wiltwycks centerfielder, committed highway robbery on Hopper in the fourth. Leskie romped way back to make a sensational falling-over-the-shoulder catch for the game's fielding highlight.

Blasting Action To Be Re-tried

Scheduled for trial Wednesday morning in county court is the negligence action brought by Peter J. Schreiber against The Callanan Road Improvement Co., Inc., an action tried at the last term of court which resulted in a disagreement by the jury.

Mr. Schreiber seeks to recover damages which he claims were done to his residence in Connelly through blasting operations at the Mingo Hollow quarry of the Callanan Company. The Schreiber property is located a considerable distance across the hills from the quarry but Mr. Schreiber claims that when the company sets off tons of explosives his walls crack and the foundation of the premises are damaged. He sought approximately $3,000 damages.

At the former trial John W. DeWitt, who appears for plaintiff, produced experts who testified to the damages and the cost of repairs and offered testimony to show that the damage was caused by the blasting. On the other hand experts were sworn by the defense and testified that the heavy charges could not damage property more than a few hundred feet away. One of the experts was Prof. Lett of Harvard, professor of seismology, who testified that the Schreiber property could not have been damaged by the blasts and that explosion of a much larger quantity could be safely employed without damage to surrounding property. He expressed an opinion that property in Kingston across the creek could not be damaged by the blasting operations.

Numerous other explosive experts were sworn by A. J. Cook who appeared for the defendant.

On the outcome of the present case in court will depend actions by numerous other parties who claim that their premises have been damaged by the explosion of tons of high powered explosives at the quarry.

The action presents a most unusual proposition and brings to light many interesting and intricate problems of law.

Drawn on the present jury list is Mr. Schreiber, plaintiff, in the action. He was summoned as an extra juror.

property is located a considerable distance across the hills from the quarry but Mr. Schreiber claims that when the company sets off tons of explosives his walls crack and the foundation of the premises are damaged. He sought approximately $3,000 damages.

At the former trial John W. DeWitt, who appears for plaintiff, produced experts who testified to the damages and the cost of repairs and offered testimony to show that the damage was caused by the blasting. On the other hand experts were sworn by the defense and testified that the heavy charges could not damage property more than a few hundred feet away. One of the experts was Prof. Lett of Harvard, professor of seismology, who testified that the Schreiber property could not have been damaged by the blasts and that explosion of a much larger quantity could be safely employed without damage to surrounding property. He expressed an opinion that property in Kingston across the creek could not be damaged by the blasting operations.

Numerous other explosive experts were sworn by A. J. Cook who appeared for the defendant.

On the outcome of the present case in court will depend actions by numerous other parties who claim that their premises have been damaged by the explosion of tons of high powered explosives at the quarry.

The action presents a most unusual proposition and brings to light many interesting and intricate problems of law.

Drawn on the present jury list is Mr. Schreiber, plaintiff, in the action. He was summoned as an extra juror.
